HOW TO BE A SUCCESSFUL BABY SITTER

Students in home economics classes at Tamalpais High School are learning how to take care of preschool children. For this part of their "home ec" course, the girls were told to bring their baby brothers or sisters—or a neighbor's children—to school. The girls caught on fast: They put the little ones to work, as these pictures by Independent-Journal photographer Jim Kean show. At left, freshmen Sue Graffe (foreground) and Mary Sullivan watch 4-qear-olds Rebecca Burchard and Barbara Jean Berg (right) try their hands at rolling out dough. More practical is the job Miss Sullivan gave the two little girls with back to camera (right)—they're Rebba and Barbara again—washing dishes.

Bruce Again Predicts Record County Budget

LEAVE TOWN UNTOUCHED

Ross Council Is Opposing Recreation Use Proposal

Ross Town Council voted 4-0 last night to tell the Marin County planning commission that the town opposes open area zoning of Marin Municipal Water District lands.

Councilmen also informally took a stand against state plans for "extensive use" recreational facilities in water district lands touching Ross.

The action was enthusiastically supported by a full-house audience that heard the water district's general manager, William R. Seeger, describe the latest developments in the zoning issue and state plans for recreational use of the watershed and lakes.

During Seeger's presentation, the only empty seat in the town hall was that of Councilman William Bricca, who was absent.

The county planning commission's hearing on applying open area zoning to the water district land is set for Monday.

"We've been battling this for two years, whether we'll come through after Monday, I don't know," Seeger said.

Seeger displayed a map from the State Division of Beaches and Parks showing plans for recreational use of most of the water district's lands.

The district already has granted the state a use permit to develop recreational facilities on 160 acres in the Cascades area above Mill Valley, with the understanding the state will purchase the land when funds are available.

Similar action is in the works for 1,100 acres in the Rock Springs area, for which the state is now preparing a contract, Seeger said. The land is not in the district's main watershed, he added. The state proposes spending up to half a million dollars to develop facilities on this portion, he reported.

The water district official said plans are less advanced for the rest of the watershed lands, but recreation groups are exerting pressure for their development.

The state map shows plans for "extensive use" of the area touching Ross.

"What's the definition of extensive use?" demanded one audience member.

"I take the 'fifth' . . . I have no idea," replied Seeger, "you'll have to put the State Division of Beaches and Parks on the hot seat on that one."

He said the state action seems to result from pressure by recreation and conservation interests, and recited his own battle against opening water supply lakes and reservoirs to public fishing. "Recreation's more organized than the fishing boys ever were," he commented.

Seeger stressed the water district's stand that the watershed land's primary use must be its "water harvest." He said the district might grant a use permit to the state, but would not sell the land outright.

Several audience members and councilmen voiced worries over the impact of heavy park-bound traffic on Ross streets, and asked whether the district would conduct hearings before it acts on the state requests.

"If we can prove this is detrimental to our own community,

Increases 4.8% Over This Year

By ROBERT M. COPPOCK

A 36 per cent increase next fiscal year in the cost of county public assistance programs will push the Marin County budget to a record high, County Administrator Alan Bruce noted in his budget message to the board of supervisors, released today.

The increase will call for a five-cent raise in the county tax rate.

He said the total budget will be up 4.8 per cent from this year's, compared to a 5.1 per cent increase in population.

TOTAL FIGURE

The total figure recommended by Bruce is $20,156,505, a hike of $3,496,016 from this year, but Bruce added that the "real budget" is $18,037,665, not counting accumulated building funds, carried over from year to year.

Forty per cent of the budget will be financed by property taxes, Bruce predicted, down from 43 per cent this year. The property tax requirement will be $8,087,809, up $928,852 and requiring a five-cent tax rate increase per $100 assessed valuation over the present rate of $2.255.

ADDITIONAL COST

The additional cost to owner of a home with market value of $25,000 would be $2.88, for a total county tax bill of $132.54. (This does not include district and city taxes collected on the same billing.)

"The county is not going broke," Bruce said. "Fund balances as of June 30 are estimated at $2,350,000."

The budget, which will be given to the board on Tuesday, will contain funds to lay the groundwork for several new or increased county programs, Bruce said.

Among these are flood control engineering, advance planning for roads, improvement in land use planning, improvements in cooperation with other local governments, more use of computers, a pioneer program in rehabilitation of delinquent children, and work training for welfare recipients.

Small amounts have been included to carry on or start such programs as a transit district,

State Department Briefs Rocky —'People Not Getting Viet Facts'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said after an administration intelligence briefing today that he still believes the American people are not being told the full story about Vietnam.

Rockerfeller made the comment after receiving the briefing from top administration officers at the State Department. Then he went to the White House to see President Lyndon B. Johnson at the president's invitation.

The New York governor was the first Republican presidential candidate to take advantage of Johnson's offer of special intelligence briefings on the world's situation for presidential aspirants.

Briefing the New York governor for nearly two hours were Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and Central Intelligence Agency Director John McCone.

Rockefeller said the intelligence estimates were helpful in bringing his information up to date, but did not change his opinion as to the foreign policies which he thinks should be followed.

Specifically, in reply to a question, he said it is still a "fair statement" to say that he believes the American people are "not getting the full story" on Vietnam.

Rockefeller said he still stands on his criticism of the way the administration is dealing with the war in Vietnam.

He has proposed that the South Vietnamese pursue the Communists into North Vietnam when they flee across the border and that the South Vietnamese bomb supply bases across the boundary in North Vietnam.

I-J Promotion Wins First In U.S., Canada

The Independent-Journal has won first prize for best retail advertising promotion of all newspapers in the United States and Canada with 100,000 circulation or less, it was announced today.

The award by Editor and Publisher, trade journal of the nation's press, will be presented to Wishard A. Brown, I-J assistant publisher, and Ray Mount Rogers, promotion manager, Monday in Minneapolis, Minn., at the National Newspaper Promotion Assn. convention.

The award is the latest of several similar prizes the I-J's promotion department has won in recent years. In 1963 and 1962, the newspaper won first prize in other divisions of the contest.

First prize for best retail advertising promotion of papers with 100,000 or more was won by the Houston Chronicle. Runners-up in the I-J's category were the Philadelphia Inquirer, Chicago's American, Santa Barbara News-Press and the San Bernardino Sun-Telegram.

County Aides Split On Gallinas Creek Control

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission yesterday called for a special night meeting to discuss formation of a small craft harbor district for dredging Gallinas Creek.

At the hearing yesterday, the commission heard representatives of the county public works, administrator's and planning departments disagree on whether the district should be formed and if so, where its boundaries should be.

Executive officer John F. Barrows, who is also assistant county administrator, asked that the district proposal be denied and that a county service area be formed instead.

Barrows said the county service area, which would be administered by the county board of supervisors, would provide better coordination with the development of the Civic Center Lagoon and with flood control work.

If the county is in charge, retorted Ross Talley, a resident of the area, there might be a lot of coordination but the dredging would probably not get done for another three years.

Talley, who is on the staff of the county planning department, noted there were heavy workloads in that department

Rabid Skunk Reported— 11th In '64

The Marin County Health Department today reported the kill of another rabid skunk, the 11th reported in the county this year.

The announcement placed 1964 as the worst rabid endemic year since 1955. In all 12 months of 1955, 11 rabid skunks were also reported. With seven months still to go, this year is well on the way to being the worst on record.

The skunk was killed in Tomales Monday by Julia Rinaldo, who reportedly hit it with a stick after the skunk had scuffled with three stray dogs on her property at the corner of Anti-Conservative Bill Tabled By Senate Unit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate rules committee has refused to approve a bill apparently designed to halt what some legislators have called an ultra-conservative attempt to take over California's Republican Party.

The measure by Assemblyman Tom Bane (D-North Hollywood) was tabled by the committee yesterday.

The bill, in a provision applying only to the GOP, would permit incumbent office holders to appoint nine people, including themselves, to the State Central Committee. Now, they can appoint only six.

Nominees could appoint only four persons, including themselves.

Republican legislators have said that ultra-conservatives are trying to take control of the central committee by putting up nominees in scores of legislative districts, even when Republicans have little chance.

Nominees, even if they are defeated, would still appoint committee members. And since only 40 of the state's 120 legislators would be able to appoint more members than incumbents.

Mrs. Stevenson Estate Ruling

CHICAGO (UPI)—Probate Court Judge Jerome Dunne, acting on the request of her mother and sons, named a conservator today for the estate of Mrs. Ellen Borden Stevenson, divorced wife of Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson.

The sons, Adlai E. Stevenson III, Borden Stevenson and John Fell Stevenson, and Mrs. Stevenson's mother, Mrs. Ellen W. Carpenter, filed a petition with the court which said Mrs. Stevenson "is incapable of managing her estate because of an imperfection of mentality."

The petition said the gross value of Mrs. Stevenson's assets is about $100,000. Her liabilities were listed as in excess of $80,000. Dunne named the Continental Illinois Bank as conservator.

Fighter Grounded

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Air Force disclosed today it has grounded its fleet of supersonic F-105 jet fighter planes as a result of the crash of one of them in North Las Vegas, Wednesday. Five persons, including four persons on the ground, died when the plane crashed in a residential area.

Health Faddist Guilty In Death

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—An Escondido health faddist was ruled guilty of involntary manslaughter today in a ruling, which if upheld, would indicate a person who objects to medical care can be forced to seek it for his dependents.

Superior Court Judge William Mahedy ruled against William R. Sullins, 41, who was accused of contributing to his daughter's death by forcing her to fast on a diet of fruit juices and water for more thn two weeks of her 44-day illness.

The daughter, Rhea, 7, died March 9, 1963. The county coroner's office ruled the death was caused by bronchial pneumonia contributed to by malnutrition.

Richardson Bridge Transit Study Bill Awaits Signature

A senate bill authorizing a $12,000 study to determine feasibility of putting trains on Richmond-San Rafael Bridge cleared the Assembly yesterday and is headed for the governor's desk for signature.

State Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael), who authored the bill, reported this today from Sacramento.

McCarthy's bill would direct the State Department of Public Works to conduct a study of rapid transit on the Richmond span, with the report to be completed by the first part of next year.

If rapid transit is possible over the Richmond-San Rafael span, it could tie into the Hayward-Richmond rapid transit that is expected to open in 1968 and a tube between Richmond and San Francisco which is scheduled to open in 1969, Senator McCarthy said.

Assemblyman William T. Bagley (R-San Rafael) carried the bill on the Assembly floor yesterday.

Senator McCarthy also reported that his resolution to have Redwood Highway designated as a part of the federal system of interstate and defense highways passed the Assembly yesterday.

Such a designation would mean more federal funds for improvement of the highway, said McCarthy.

More Landmark Decisions On Rights Due From Court

(EDITOR'S NOTE — Ten years ago Sunday, the Supreme Court made the historic civil rights ruling that separate educational facilities are inherently unequal. Following is a synopsis of the history the court has been making in that difficult field since—and a look ahead to some expected landmark decisions.)

By PAUL M. YOST

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten years after its historic decision against racial segregation in public schools, the Supreme Court is due to follow up with more landmark rulings in the difficult civil rights field.

Any Monday before term-closing day in June, the high tribunal may decide the fate of several thousand Negroes and whites arrested for sit-in demonstrations at Southern lunch counters and other private business places.

The troublesome issue that confronts the nine justices is validity, under the Constitution, of the use of state criminal trespass laws to enforce private discrimination.

Equally difficult is a pending case from Prince Edward County in Virginia, where schools were closed in 1959 to avoid court-ordered admission of Negroes to classes.

The justices have been asked to order the county to levy taxes for desegregated schools, and to declare unconstitutional the closing of county schools while public schools elsewhere in Virginia remain open.

The Prince Edward case was one of the original school segregation cases decided by the Supreme Court on May 17, 1954, and some court observers have predicted that the case may be acted on finally next Monday—10 years and a day after the first momentous ruling.

Chief Justice Earl Warren a decade ago pronounced the fateful words that "separate educational facilities are inherently unequal." He declared for a unanimous court that Negroes cannot legally be barred from public schools because of race.

Numerous lawsuits followed as Negro parents and Negro organizations pressed for compliance with the decree. The Supreme Court mostly let the lower courts struggle with the cases until recently. Then it heard arguments in the Prince Edward case and in another appeal involving Atlanta.

The latter case questions the validity of Atlanta's gradual desegregation plan that started from the top down, beginning with the 11th and 12th grades.

While school cases worked their way through the lower courts, the high tribunal in the last decade took on and decided numerous disputes in the civil rights field that appeared to be sparked by the 1954 segregation ruling. Time and again final decisions in that field hinged on a basic holding that any activity having a government connection must be open to Negroes and whites without discrimination.

A year ago the court called for immediate desegregation of parks, playgrounds and other city recreational facilities in Memphis.

In a case from Wilmington, Del., the court ordered Negroes admitted to a privately operated restaurant in a state-owned building devoted largely to car parking.

A major victory for campaigners against racial discrimination was a Warren opinion that state laws, city ordinances and statements by their officials are totally ineffective to bar Negroes from peaceful sit-in demonstrations in public business places.

The sit-in cases now pending before the court for decision raise the question of what to do about arrests in instances where there are no such laws or statements by public officials.

Another major victory in the efforts to crack segregation barriers was Supreme Court reversal of breach of the peace convictions of 187 Negro students who demonstrated outside the South Carolina State House in Columbia. The court said the convictions infringed the Negroes' constitutional rights of free speech, free assembly and freedom to petition for redress of grievances.

Open Area Zoning Due Planners Again

Open area zoning, which has been adamantly opposed by Marin Municipal Water District, will again be before the Marin County Planning commission at its meeting Monday.

The proposal, item 39 on the agenda, for the meeting beginning at 9 a.m., has been postponed numerous times, recently because of the lands for recreation purposes.

Involved are 16,785 acres draining into Kent, Alpine, Bon Tempe, Phoenix and Lagunitas lakes, and 1,632.66 acres surrounding Nicasio Reservoir.

The latest delay was to give district and state time to decide which water district lands would not be used for state park purposes. The finding, basically, was that all the lands would either be purchased or leased, except a small area at Deer Park, near Fairfax.

The district has claimed that open area zoning would cut the value of the land, meaning the state would pay less for it.

Another controversial item on the agenda is the next one, item 40: Precise zoning for the Bolinas-Stinson Beach area. A group from the area involved is expected to ask again that there be no zoning until a recreation-commercial zone and large lot and average density requirements are in the zoning ordinance.

The commission will review grading plans for the initial unit of Marin Highlands, on the Pimentel ranch, near Novato (item 38).

A 2.42-acre shopping center by Novato markets is planned for Entrada Drive, near Highway 101, Ignacio (item 25).

St. Vincent's School for Boys has asked approval of a change of location for a proposed convent for the Carmelite sisters at the end of Blackstone Drive, rather than the end of Unionstone Drive, Marinwood, as had been planned (item 26).

The BG&L Co. has requested a use permit for a service station on highway 101 near Novato between the Tomahawk Lodge and the McGraw-Hill Book Co. Distribution center site (item 24).

Paul and Ora Smith have asked for a use permit for a motel next to the fireside motel on Shoreline highway near Tamalpais Valley (item 19).

Peewee Golf Coming Back?

Is peewee golf coming back?

Those with long memories can recall that in the late 1920s and early 1930s, miniature golf courses dotted the U.S. landscape and were squeezed between business buildings in downtown districts. There were even indoor courses.

Few are around nowadays, but item 14 on the Marin County Planning Commission's agenda for its meeting starting at 9 a.m. Monday is an application by Alfred Finnila and Edna Irene Jeffrey for architectural supervision of a miniature golf course to be installed at the northwest corner of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Highway 101, near the Greenbrae interchange.

Egypt's pharaohs gathered fortunes in direct tribute. After dividing land among his people, Rameses the Great (1318-1232 B.C.) set up a special tax scale based on the share each farmer received.

Redwood Band, Orchestra Play Tonight

The Redwood High School Orchestra and Band will present their sixth annual spring concert today at 8 p.m. in the little theater.

With a theme of international travel, the concert will present music from about a dozen countries illustrating the universality of music as a language.

A featured selection in the orchestra's part of the program will be the playing of the first movement of Beethoven's first symphony. Also to be performed will be "Tocatta" by Frescobaldi and such varied pieces as Leroy Anderson's "Phantom Regiment," "Miserlou" and "The Warsaw Concerto."

The band will play the second movement of Haward Hanson's symphony "Pan the Piper" and other pieces with and international theme.

Both the orchestra and band are directed by Sidney Gordon.

Early Belvedere, Tiburon Subject Of New Booklet

Publication of "Glimpses of Belvedere and Tiburon — the Early Decades" was announced this week by the Belvedere-Tiburon Landmarks Society.

Format of the new book is that of an old-fashioned album, according to Mrs. Robert Bastian, society president. It contains 50 pictures, with three pages of background notes.

"We tried to show what the area looked like and what it was like to live here in the early days," Mrs. Bastian said.

Inspiration for publishing the book came from an album of local scenes taken around the turn of the century by Clarence Edward Holmes, then a Belvedere resident. Eleven pictures from this album were used in the book, together with others selected from landmarks society files and private collections.

The book is available by mail from the Landmarks Society, P. O. Box 134, Belvedere-Tiburon, California.

Loma Verde Bus Stop Will Be Eliminated

The northbound Greyhound Bus Lines stop at Loma Verda will be eliminated, effective Monday, until completion of Highway 101 construction work in the area, the California Division of Highways announced today.

Loma Verde passengers can board or leave northbound buses at the Entrada Drive stop to the north or the Hamilton Air Force Base stop to the south, the division of highways said. Southbound buses will not be affected.

If one of the reasons you live in Marin is because you want superior schools for your children . . .

VOTE NO ON THE

TAMALPAIS MONSTER UNIFICATION SCHEME

Many of the large city school systems in the country are torn by dissension over boycotts, religious arguments and threatened teachers' strikes. These controversies are perhaps inevitable because of the political make-up of big-city school administrations, which are for removed from any effective control or participation by parents and citizens.

By and large, Marin County schools provide superior education for our children, at reasonable cost. This is because Marin schools are close to the people—because they are organized so that elected lay citizens from every community can work cooperatively with parents, teachers and school officials toward the single goal of constantly improving educational programs and opportunities for each community's children. Larger districts cost more.

Existing State legislation requires the consolidation of school districts into fewer administrative units. But the monster unification proposal on the June 2 ballot, to consolidate all elementary schools within the Tamalpais Union High School area into one huge, sprawling, "big-city" district is NOT the answer.

The advantages of consolidation can be achieved without adopting this particular, ill-advised, politically-inspired scheme. As thinking citizens of the Marin communities affected, we can and must devise a consolidation plan that will preserve local control, insure continued educational progress, and encourage community interest in quality education. The first step is to vote NO on June 2 to defeat the present scheme to place control of our schools in the hands of a rubber-stamp board and a top-heavy bureaucracy.

By voting down this unworkable scheme now, we can adopt a sensible alternative plan which will give us the advantages of consolidation without sacrificing quality education for our children.

RABID

Second Street and Highway 1.

Tests at the health department showed the skunk was rabid. The three dogs were taken to the Marin County Humane Society shelter in San Rafael where they will be held. However, if someone should want them, the dogs will have to be confined for six months, the prescribed time after contact with a rabid animal.

If no one claims the dogs, they will be killed.

Incidence of rabies has varied considerably through the years, according to Health Officer Carolyn B. Albrecht. There were nine rabid skunks in 1963, three in 1962, nine in 1961, and only one in 1960.

Two School Issues To Be Voted On

Special ballots on two school district issues are included in response to applications to Marin County clerk's office for absentee ballots in the June 2 primary election, the clerk's office said today.

Absentee voters residing in Tamalpais Union High School District will receive one ballot in addition to the regular primary ballot and will determine if the proposed new unified school district would assume liability for all bonded indebtedness of the existing district.

On the same ballot is election of board members for each of the seven proposed trustee areas.

Voters in Larkspur School District will receive two additional ballots, one determining whether the district should incur a bonded indebtedness of $375,000 for lots, buildings, additions, repair and furnishings, and the second on a proposed increase in tax rate from $2.10 to $2.70.

Voters other than absentee ballot-casters will be provided the extra ballots at the polls, George H. Gnoss, county clerk, said.

A Nicasio School District tax increase, proposal is included on the regular ballot for Nicasio residents.

Deadline for returning absentee ballots is May 26.

Meeting Set On Unification

A town meeting will be held at 8 p.m. Thursday in Central School auditorium by the Sausalito Citizens Council at which two trustees of the Sausalito School District will discuss pros and cons of school district unification.

Trustee Harold L. Sleight will speak against the proposed Tamalpais Unified School District, with his topic, "Spend More for Less Education." Trustee Stanley J. Wolfe will speak on "Sausalito Needs Unification Now."

The board of trustees went on record several months ago saying they favor a two-way split of the Tamalpais High School District area.

Warped Education Behind Juvenile Murder, Theft

By WIL LEPKOWSKI
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON — Behind every murder, theft, beating, or rape committed by a slum-bred juvenile delinquent is a tale of warped education, job maladjustment, and sexual confusion.

This is the conclusion reached by three social scientists based on a study of delinquent St. Louis, Mo., teen-agers.

Old wives' tales on what makes children go wrong are now giving way to data gathered on the spot. These results point to definite factors that propel a child to the practice of crime from a background of poverty.

The researchers studied white and Negro children, aged 13 to 19, reared around the downtown area of St. Louis.

They found essentially that the delinquent is criminal because ordinary, accepted means of self-satisfaction are closed to him. He can't earn money, status, possessions, and sexual gratification, so he takes them.

In the process, he fulfills a great natural need. He reduces his tensions. The act of crime is a relief from pent-up desires and pressures generated by the home and the gang.

"Many youths turn to delinquency as naturally as they would swallow medicine to relieve pain," reported sociologists Robert L. Hamblin, Mark J. Abrahamson and Robert L. Burgess in the journal Trans-Action.

Hamblin and Burgess are with Washington University, St. Louis, and Abrahamson is on the Illinois Institute of Technology faculty.

They found that usually the origin of crime is the home—where attitudes toward life and self are formed. In the slum home the mother usually dominates. The father, if he is still living in the house, is pushed into the background. He is a failure in his role as breadwinner.

This warped home life distorts the child's experience with school, job, and sexual role. The pattern usually differs between male and female, white and Negro. But the crimes are the same. Shoplifting is commonest.

"Specifically, the push to delinquency increases among white boys to the extent that their mother's influence governs them," they reported, "and to the extent that their identities as developing men are confused.

"When a mother encourages shoplifting (as slum mothers freqeuntly do) her son will generally follow," they continued. "If she rejects him for any reason, the pressures will interact—the desire to do anything to please her, even shoplifting, will become very great."

Such sons, if they marry, lack ambition and generate another mother-dominated home. So the cycle repeats itself. It appears to follow the same course whether the boy is white or Negro.

Negro girls, however, are subject to extreme sexual pressures which impose conflict whether or not they become promiscuous. "The stronger they are urged to try to hold back, the more likely that they will relieve their tensions by delinquency," said the St. Louis researchers.

The white girl delinquent is easiest to predict. She follows her mother into acts of shoplifting and having children out of wedlock.

Early marriage is good for these girls if they marry before delinquency takes over.

Ballot Box Stuffers Delay Vote

Eight or 10 students who were "horsing around during the lunch hour" yesterday forced the Terra Linda High School student body to reschedule its election for next fall's song and yell leaders and student council members.

Dean of Girls Margaret Rattray said the youths stuffed the ballot boxes, making an accurate count impossible.

Voting for queen candidates for the Terra Linda World's Fair and Aquacade, sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Assn. this weekend, was rescheduled for today.

Election of songleaders and yell leaders and class representatives to the student council will be held Monday.

Mrs. Rattray said she did not know yet what punishment was awaiting the ballot box stuffers, except that she was sure they would lose their voting privileges.

She said there was no organized attempt to help any one candidate. "It was just some of the school clowns," she commented.

Man's Head Cut By Passing Auto

Louis R. Mercado, 58, of 75 Manzanita Avenue, San Rafael, was cut on his head when struck by a car on Third Street at the Greyhound Bus Depot in San Rafael at 7:05 a.m. today.

He was treated at San Rafael General Hospital.

San Rafael police reported he was struck by an eastbound car driven by Theodore John Boos, 54, of 407 Mission Avenue, San Rafael. Boos told police that Mercado stepped from in front of a parked car, walking north across Third Street.

Terra Linda Seniors Win 12 Scholarships

Seven girls and five boys in the senior class at Terra Linda High School divided $1,100 in scholarships at Wednesday's all-school assembly in the amphitheater.

Each of the winners was rated the best in his or her department of the high schcool, through screening by teachers, counselors and the administrative council.

The scholarship money is provided by the Terra Linda High School Parent-Teacher Assn., through funds raised by the school's annual World's Fair, according to Mrs. Margaret Rattray, dean of girls.

This year's World's Fair will be held tomorrow at the school, to finance next year's scholarships.

Winners of $100 each were:

Sherry Petrini, art student, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ben F. Petrini, 29 Corrillo Drive; Sally Earwood, business, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Claude E. Earwood, 37 San Pablo Avenue; Barbara Malcolm, foreign language, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Malcolm; Linda Stirling, homemaking, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James R. Stirling, 610 Vendola Drive;

Douglas Ferguson, industrial arts, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert C. Ferguson, 678 Las Colindas; Clinton Lee, math, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard C. Lee, 163 Merrydale Road; Douglas Cole, music, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Frederick Cole, 890 Las Ovejas; Paul Kemper, science, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond F. Kemper, 900 Las Pavadas Avenue, and Diane Swingle, social science, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl F. Swingle, 426 Hickory Lane, all San Rafael.

The $100 award for the physical education department was split evenly between Robert Cooney, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Cooney, 101 Whittier Avenue, and Diane Congdon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Congdon, 60 Crestview Drive.

BUDGET

housing for the elderly, human rights work, minority training and employment, broadening the tax base, and the board's "action plan" to cut the burden of property taxes.

The county administrator said the county is faced with four "frustrations" in drawing up a budget.

The first of these is that while the budget grows as fast as the county grows, the area where the board of supervisors can exercise any real control shrinks each year, because of increasing control by federal or state governments.

Because of this, public assistance, which accounted for 35 per cent of the budget this year, will take 40.6 per cent next, according to the recommendation.

Another frustration, Bruce said, is the conflict between the resident who asks for increased services from government and the resident who complains about high taxes. Often it is the same person.

The third frustration is the lack of a broad industrial tax base, such as the one which next year will allow Santa Clara County to increase services, including welfare, while cutting the tax rate.

Finally, Bruce said, there is the frustration that the supervisors get blamed often for tax increases caused by special district, cities or school districts.

The county collects these taxes, but has no voice in how much they will be.

Bruce said that after discussions with department heads, a second review of the budget was made by his office, with further cuts made, including a reduction in the amount recommended for salary increases and deferral of hiring for some new positions.

The other major area of county government to show an unusually large increase, besides public assistance, is recreation, up 34.8 per cent from this year. "Public protection," which includes planning, will be up 12.6 per cent, according to the recommendation, and the road budget up 9.2 per cent.

On the question of welfare, Bruce added that about half the public assistance costs to the county is for hospital and nursing home care, mainly for the elderly.

Cable View Agreement Predicted

Fairfax City Atty. Wallace S. Myers predicted today that he and Clear View Cable Systems Inc. will be able to agree on terms of a bond late today, in time to call off a meeting of the city council set for 6:30 p.m.

The council Monday night set the meeting for tonight to revoke the newly granted franchise unless the company posted an $11,000 bond. Myers said this morning that Clear View submitted a bond yesterday, but that he rejected one clause of the agreement.

If Myers approves the bond, Fairfax City Clerk Alice Leonesio will notify the councilmen not to attend, and adjourn the meeting herself. If the bond is not approved, the council has said it will meet to revoke its new television franchise ordinance, due to take effect May 21.

In any event, councilmen will meet at 7:30 tonight with city department heads. The councilmen plan to discuss the responsibilities of the various city officials and their officers.

The session will be held in the council chambers upstairs in the fire station.

Loss Of $500 In Tools Reported

Two breakins including loss of $500 worth of tools from a construction shed were reported today by Marin County sheriff's office.

The tool theft was reported yesterday by John Oliveira at 639 Tennessee Road, Tamalpais Valley. He said loot included a drill, saws, a floor stapler and wire cutters, according to deputies.

Entry was by breaking a door hasp.

Ira Carrier, Marin City, said his home was entered by breaking a front window and $15 cash and a .45 caliber automatic pistol were taken from a trunk yesterday.

A total of $9,400 was awarded, ranging up to $1,000 to each of four top students chosen in the fields of fine arts, science and math, liberal arts and vocational arts.

McKinnon, the son of Dr. and Mrs. Kenneth L. McKinnon of 72 Lochinvar Road, San Rafael, is a science and math major at San Rafael High.

Miss Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Victor D. Johnson, 650 Plum Drive, Novato, competed in the vocational arts section of the contest.

Man Arrested In Battery Case

Bradley Frank Smith, 38, of 100 Bayo Vista Way, San Rafael, was arrested by San Rafael police yesterday on suspicion of battery.

His wife, Janette Mildred Smith, from whom he had been separated two months, charged that Smith went to her home at 159 West End Avenue early last Saturday, broke down her front door, struck her and threatened to kill her. Police reported that Mrs. Smith suffered a swollen and bloodied nose.

Smith posted $276 bail. He is to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 1:30 p.m. Monday.

'Old Iron Legs' Again Visits At Air Base

"Old Iron Legs," one of the nation's most famous walkers, yesterday visited Hamilton Air Force Base and Novato, to renew acquaintances with air police whom he met on a similar visit two years ago.

John F. Stahl, who will be 82 in August, stopped by on the way—by foot—to Eureka, Arcata and Westwood, on a "short trip" of about 500 miles. He hopes to chalk up another 500 miles for a total of 1,000 this summer.

At Hamilton, members of the air police gave him a tour of the base. He was a guest of the Hi-12 Club for lunch at the Noncommissioned Officers Mess.

He spent the previous night in San Rafael, having walked from San Francisco.

Stahl's most famous walk was from San Francisco to the Seattle World's Fair in 1962. It was then he made friends with the air police at Hamilton.

Stahl's walking hobby came from a disability. He retired with a nervous disability from the Menlo Park Post Office in 1935. By 1939 he decided to take the long distance walks to improve his health.

"My first trip was my most interesting and most dangerous," he said.

It was from the Panama Canal to Austin, Tex. The danger was from wild animals in the jungle as he walked, he said.

When he reached El Salvador, he did not have enough money with him to get into the country. Officials held him up at the border for over three weeks while they checked on him. In Honduras, he stepped on a nail and got a foot infection. A doctor saw him limping and treated him for two weeks.

"He didn't charge me a cent for it either," Stahl said.

Although he speaks very little Spanish, he said the people in Central America and Mexico were very friendly to him.

The dangers of that trip did not scare him too much, because he reversed the direction and walked from Texas to the Panama Canal in 1948 and 1949.

Another long walk that he took got a title for him. On a walk from Chicago to Mobile, Ala., detoured through Frankfort, Ky.

"I went in to see the governor and he made me a Kentucky colonel," he said.

No, he does not plan on walking to the New York World's Fair. The 3,000 miles is a bit too far for the 82-year-old man to try all at once any more.

Repairs Bids Are Asked At Hamilton

The base procurement office at Hamilton Air Force Base today called for bids and announced awarding of two contracts.

Bids were called for furnishing custodial services for four buildings, for repairs and alterations to the surgical nursing unit, repairs to the airmen dormitories and alterations to the Communications Bldg. 504, at Hamilton.

For the Mill Valley Air Force Station, bids were asked for alterations to the heating plant; for supplying milk products and ice cream for troop issue; for supply baker products for troop issue and for furnishing bus transportation to and from the Mill Valley Air Force Station.

Contracts were awarded to Lloyd Hunter Construction Co. of Novato, for $22,119 for maintenance, repairs and alterations to the medical nursing unit, and for $17,421 for alterations and repairs to Bldg. 95 at Hamilton. A $12,765 contract was awarded to Edward W. Scott Electric Co. of San Francisco to construct storage for liquid oxygen at Hamilton.

can we have this turned down?" asked Mayor Fred S. Allen.

"Then my board can tell the state that we have petitions from our people," Seeger replied. "From what I hear here, I would say there will be public hearings on it."

He warned, "You don't know the power of the recreationalists. If we say 'no' to the state, we'd be deluged by recreationalists."

Boys Start Marinwood Grass Fires

Two boys, unsuccessful in their first attempt to start a grass fire in Marinwood, yesterday, tried again after watching fire engines race up and then leave. The second time was more serious, as six acres of grass were blackened.

The boys, aged "about 8 or 9," were captured and released to their parents for discipline, according to the Marinwood Fire Department.

On the second blaze, county fire trucks were called in and provided four units to aid the two from the Marinwood Fire Department. This blaze, reported at 4:01 p.m. behind 254 Blackstone Drive, was started only about 300 yards from a fire reported at 3:30 p.m. behind 2750 Heatherstone Drive.

The first fire was extinguished before it had burned a square yard of grass.

MILL VALLEY ANNEX RULING PROMISED

Formation Commission To Decide Issue May 28 After Balmer Says Delay May Force Election

The Marin County Local Agency Formation Commission late yesterday promised a decision May 28 on whether it will permit Mill Valley to go ahead with procedures for annexing 255 acres of flat land extending to Richardson Bay and Highway 101.

The promise came after Bert A. Balmer, Mill Valley city manager, protested that the commission's delay in ruling might force an election on the annexation.

Mill Valley seeks to annex the area as uninhabited land, requiring no election. If, however, there are 12 residents on the land 54 days before the Mill Valley City Council passes a resolution to annex it, an election would be required under state law. When the matter was submitted, there were only two residents, but others are moving in, Balmer said.

The Mill Valley city manager entered his protest after the commission, headed by County Assessor Bert W. Broemmel, closed its public hearing on the annexation but postponed decision.

The hearing brought many protests. During closing arguments by annexation proponents, Mrs. Albert E. White, former Mill Valley planning commissioner and wife of a city councilman, commented, "Too often the protestors show up and those favoring don't."

Mrs. White said the annexation would be a great advantage to Mill Valley, would give the city control of its principal entrance. Noting protests came from two fire districts (Tamalpais and Alto), she remarked that smaller districts are fading anyhow.

Mill Valley Mayor Michael Wornum said that yesterday's hearing was not the last chance for public protest, since the city council will have to hold a hearing if it is permitted to proceed on the annexation.

City Manager Balmer said the local agency formation commission's purpose should be to discourage formation of new districts and encourage small districts to consolidate or annex to cities.

Wax Funds Unspent —Money Given Away

Leftover money from a political campaign can be a burden in the bank.

City Councilman Melvin S. Wax, one of three victorious candidates in the April 14 election in Sausalito, had $189.50 unspent from total contributions of $687.

"It was embarrassing. I didn't know what to do with it," he said. "I couldn't put it in my pocket nor have a party nor send it to Sally Stanford.

"So I decided to send out postcards to everyone who had given more than $5 to my campaign, giving them four choices: (1) To receive the money back on a pro-rata share, about 30 per cent of what each person gave; (2) give it to the library building fund; (3) give it to the Sausalito Foundation, an organization formed to preserve the beauty of Sausalito, or (4) give it to a scholarship for Gisela Contreras, a Chilean student at University of Pacific, Stockton, whom Sausalito, sister city to Vina Del Mar, Chile, is interested in assisting."

On return of the postcards, said Wax, Miss Contreras had received the most votes. He said he sent a check for $85 to University of Pacific, $80 to the library fund, $20 to Sausalito Foundation, and since one person had made the request, $4.50 to the committee for better schools through unification.

"Nobody asked for his money back," said Wax, "which surprised me."

Catholic Birth Control Pill Developer Hit

CLEVELAND (UPI)—A Roman Catholic developer of birth control pills today was blasted as "a moral rapist" by Msgr. Francis W. Carney, director of the Family Life Bureau of the Cleveland Catholic Diocese.

Dr. John Rock of Brookline, Mass., in a speech here Wednesday said suggestions that a new pill acceptable to the Catholic Church would soon be ready for general use were overly optimistic.

In his book, "The Time Has Come," he argues the church should accept the contraceptive pill.

Msgr. Carney today called Rock "a moral rapist, using his strength as a man of science to assault the faith of his fellow Catholics."

Driver Is Fined

Rafael Garcia Jr., 42, Richmond, was fined $166 in Marin Municipal Court yesterday for drunken driving. He was arrested Monday by the California Highway Patrol on State Route 17.

Mill Valley Boy Admits B-B Shots

A 13-year-old Mill Valley boy admitted to police last night that he had shot at two moving vehicles and at plate glass windows of a residence in the vicinity of Camino Alto and Sycamore Avenue Monday.

The boy, who said he was aiming his B-B gun at tires and hub caps of the automobiles and "toward the building," is on probation as a runaway. Information on the shootings will be turned over to the probation office, said Police Chief Dan Terzich.

Rear windows of cars of James Tudor, 125-A Bolinas Road, Fairfax, and Harry Kruger, 11 Almenar Drive, Greenbrae, were reported hit on Monday, and Howard Dawson, 129 Camino Alto, reported two windows broken at his home on the same night. Tudor said a pellet missed his head by about 18 inches.

Shortage Seen In Farm Labor

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The State Department of Employment announced a survey of agricultural labor, based on disability insurance tax records, showed there was not enough labor in California to meet shortages expected when the Mexican national, or bracero, program ends after this year.

Albert B. Tieburg, director, said California is not making full use of its people who work on farms from time to time.

"When this state can use these persons more regularly, it will be less dependent on outside sources of farm labor," Tieburg said.

Records Not In File; Dope Pusher Flees

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police say Louis Vasselli, a convicted narcotics pusher from Chicago, slipped through their hands yesterday because his arrest records had been altered and fingerprints stolen.

The FBI said Vasselli jumped $63,000 bail in Chicago 18 months ago after his conviction for selling dope.

Vasselli, who the FBI said was known in San Francisco as Theodore Rago, 35, talked with Deputy Police Chief Al Nelder yesterday, about the missing records of an arrest for drunkenness. He was again fingerprinted, and released.

Police said they matched his fingerprints against their wanted files and were startled to discover he was a fugitive.

When police went to rearrest him, he was gone.

At a nationwide manhunt was intensified, police made an all-out effort to find who had tampered with the arrest record.

Ex-Inverness Vet, Family Are Outfitting New Boat

Former Inverness veterinarian Robert L. Griffith, shipwrecked on a lonely South Pacific island early this year with his wife and a 9-year-old son, has found a new boat.

This news came today from Robin Kinkead public relations man for Pan American Airways who just returned from Tahiti. Kinkead, who lives in San Francisco, encountered the Griffith family at Papeete harbor.

"They were busy outfitting another boat, the American," Kinkead said.

It is a 27-footer, either a sloop or a cutter, Kinkead said. Griffith told him it was built in England 40 or 50 years ago. Griffith said he had taken over a lease on it.

"He plans to sail around the islands some more," Kinkead reported.

Griffith, his wife, Nancy, and son, Reid, were shipwrecked on Vahanga Island, about 150 miles north of Manga Reva in the Tuamotu chain. The French ordered them off the island because of pending atomic tests.

Griffith told Kinkead he wished he could have stayed on the island another month.

The Griffiths lost their 53-foot cutter Awahnee when it hit the reef of the island in a storm. At the time of the wreck, Griffith was looking for some trace of the yacht Astrea, which has been missing since last June.

Kinkead reported that the Griffith family was busy, happy and well.

"He was wearing sandles, khaki shorts and a Hemingway beard," Kinkead reported.

The public relations man was in Tahiti on the first flight of the airlines new San Francisco-Los Angeles-Tahiti schedule.

Tough Rules On Pesticide Use Sought

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Tightening of laws to protect agricultural workers against possible ill effects caused by handling pesticides is urged by a committee of the California Medical Assn.

The association's scientific board made a number of recommedations yesterday:

1. Forbid farm workers to use pesticides unless it can be proved they have been trained to handle them safely.

2. Make mandatory the reporting to public health authorities of every illness caused by toxic pesticides.

3. Tighten safety precautions apply to the transportation of pesticides.

4. Compel accurate accounting of all quantities and types of pesticides used in California.

5. Provide soap, water and adequate facilities for washing in the fields near where pesticides are applied.

6. Intensify research into the effects of pesticides.

The CMA board also said homes and gardens should be scrutinized as well as farms because "these potential places of lethal exposure are receiving little or no attention."

Women Flyers Seem Ready For Dog Fight

COLUMBUS, Ohio (UPI)—The only two women to fly solo around the world have become engaged in a long-distance dispute over who was the first to do it.

Mrs. Jerrie Mock of Columbus, who became the first woman to fly alone around the world April 17 when she landed her single-engine plane to end a 29-day flight, accepted a challenge by Mrs. John Merriam Smith to have a race.

She said she would be glad to race, suggested Guam to Oakland, and added "I'll use one engine."

Mrs. Mock described Mrs. Smith, a Long Beach flyer, as "a poor loser."

Mrs. Smith left Oakland several days before Mrs. Mock left Columbus and she arrived back in California Wednesday in her twin-engine plane.

Mrs. Smith took more than three weeks to fly the Guam-Oakland leg of her globe-circling flight, while Mrs. Mock made it in less than a week.

Mrs. Mock questioned whether Mrs. Smith had chosen to fly more miles to avoid long, dangerous distances over open water.

Mrs. Smith said her 27,500-mile flight, "which I'm quite confident Mrs. Mock is unfamiliar with, followed the exact 1937 route taken by Amelia Earhart.

"It crosses over 11,000 miles of water, 16,500 miles of land and crosses the equator four times," she added.

Mrs. Mock, who said her flight was aimed at proving the reliability of light planes, said she felt "Mrs. Smith's flight has hurt aviation by continuously spotlighting malfunctions."

Mrs. Smith denied her plane had major mechanical troubles on her 57-day flight. She said her course was "10 times more difficult" than Mrs. Mock's trip, and charged Mrs. Mock did not in fact fly the 22,858.8 miles necessary for official recognition of a 'round-the-world flight.

Mrs. Mock said she flew more than 23,000 miles.

Good Deed Bad For Policeman

POWELL, Wyo., (AP) — Wyoming Highway Patrolman J. S. Brunton spotted a stalled car along the highway a mile west of Powell. A short distance down the road he observed a man carrying a gasoline can.

Brunton stopped, drove the man to the stalled car and helped him pour gasoline into the vehicle. The man thanked the patrolman and drove off.

When Brunton checked patrol records the next day he discovered the car had been stolen in Powell a few minutes before he had helped the stalled motorist.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Northgate Is Choice Dining Spot Even Before Big Stores Open Up

Someone said that unit one of the Northgate Shopping Center is a quiet place—but this is only the calm before the storm. One of these days—and not too far off—fortified by unit two where the big stores are going, the center will be a beehive of activity.

You don't have to wait until the Emporium and some of the other places open before visiting Northgate for lunch or dinner. Lin Fa Gardens is open for both. Good food, lots of room inside, and outside for parking. There's a capacious banquet room—but make your reservations for it well in advance. Seems that more than one group has discovered it.

And, of course, the picturesque Mai Tai Room. The ladies will like this: Golden Buddha delight, an after-lunch drink.

ANOTHER EATING PLACE planned for Northgate unit one is not far away—"The T's," to be owned by Frank Tarantino who lives at Peacock Gap. This will be strictly a counter operation, open every day from 7 a.m. to 11 p.m. or later, depending upon how the traffic develops. It was supposed to have had a May opening but construction was delayed. The first of July will probably be the opening date.

Tarantino owns Bingo's restaurant on Lombard Street, San Francisco, and he has recently taken over another one — Rusty's, at 532 Sansome Street.

PLEASANT SURPRISE. We were pleased to note a well-patronized dining room at Tomahawk Lodge, Novato, at lunch time this week. And, judging from the food served, there's no reason why this shouldn't be so constantly. Nice arrangement for parties and banquets here.

OUR SYMPATHY goes out to Bill Kader who recently opened the Palms Pancake House at Bermuda Palms, San Rafael—and then had the misfortune to slip on a wet spot (not at his restaurant) and injure his back. He's now in St. Joseph's Hospital, San Francisco, and may be confined there for some time. An operation may be necessary.

He's giving up the Palms and night chef Bill Volperts is taking over this weekend from Lisa Godfrey, who's been keeping it going. Volperts is well experienced, having had his own restaurant in Nevada City. New hours aren't certain—probably 11 a.m. to 11 p.m., closed Mondays.

DOMINIC'S will have much more luncheon and party space before long, according to new manager El Smits. Plans to put an upper deck on this harbor restaurant have been approved by the San Rafael Planning Commission. It will have a number of separate rooms for small groups. Way it is now—if the Chart Room is taken, only the large banquet room is left and this can't be subdivided conveniently.

FRANCHINI'S CHATEAU will celebrate its third anniversary week after next under the Roy Franchinis, father and son, who are already planning something special for that week. Also a cause for celebration here is business, I'm told. Last Sunday and last week were the best since they've had the place.

APPARENTLY many Marin restaurants had just about all the business they could handle on Mother's Day, and an interesting statistic might be how many mothers were brunched or dined out last Sunday. The figure would probably run into several thousands.

As frequently happens on days like this, waiting lines were long, a few reservations got tangled up, and in some instances the keen edge of customary service may have been slightly dulled.

Which brings to my mind: For relaxation and genuine enjoyment without pressure in eating out, try the "offdays" sometime. Not Friday, Saturday or Sunday, but those quieter other days. But check first to find out if the restaurant of your choice is closed on Monday or Tuesday — sometimes Wednesday.

SMALL BUSINESS GROUPS have started showing up for lunch at Pandora restaurant in San Anselmo, not far removed from the center of things. Many a restaurateur less venturesome than Jim Pias and Reno Bosco shies away from opening during the mid-day, and it usually takes time to build up a good lunch trade. We're glad to see it happening here.

Luncheon menu has some excellent choices and if you have never been here except during the dark of night you might be surprised how pleasant it is. View, too.

COME TO FIND OUT, Art Blum of Sleepy Hollow, besides being in the publicity business in San Francisco, is also co-operator of the Golden Spa in Lake County. This was formerly Harbin Hot Springs, and since Art and his partner Maury Abend took it over they've added new equipment and made some changes for the better. Now it's something like a European spa.

The heart of this place is a giant spring-fed indoor pool of warm mineral water. There are also a hot water pool, private Roman baths, massage rooms and a "slender center" exclusively for the ladies.

Recreational facilities are plentiful.

LARS ERIC BENSON, chef at Peacock Gap Country Club, is also managing the snack bar at McNear's Beach which is being used exclusively by the Peacock Gap Swimming and Tennis Club.

ELIZABETH STREICHER reopened the Coffee Office across from the San Anselmo City Hall this week as Rikki's and has changed her schedule to have hours from 8:30 a.m. to 9 p.m., including Saturday and Sunday. Closing day will now be Tuesday. She is featuring a brunch on weekends and specialties to take out.

Marin Dining And Wining

Science Lends Hand To Draught Beer Fans

BEDFORD, Mass. (UPI) — A local firm is doing a booming business selling a product that is 82 per cent nothing.

Millipore Filter Corp.'s porous cellular plastic membrane has made it possible to bottle draught beer—a feat heretofore merely a fond dream among brewmasters and quaffers.

Four beer firms, two in Pittsburgh, one in Chicago and one in Boston, are now filtering their brew instead of boiling it in the pasteurization process.

The way of life on Cyprus has changed little in centuries.

Safety Slogans Instead Of Bible?

BOSTON (UPI) — With Bible reading outlawed in public schools, the Automobile Legal Assn. has come up with an idea for filling this void at the start of the school day. The association suggests the reading of passages from a good highway safety book.

"More than 40,500 Americans were killed on our highways during 1962, and young drivers accounted for far more than their share," the association said. "Who is to say that a few minutes a day devoted to solemn meditation by high school students of the concepts of safe driving would not start a lowering trend in such statistics?"

Television Gives Busy Nurses An Extra Eye

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Williamsburg Nursing Home has installed a closed-circuit television system to help give its patients constant attention.

Luncheon Draws 125 From Hub

More than 125 men attended the first Inter-Service Club luncheon sponsored by the San Anselmo Chamber of Commerce yesterday at the Marin Art and Garden Center in Ross.

Attending the event were members of the San Anselmo Firemen's Club, Rotary and Lions clubs, Ross Valley Kiwanis Club and the chamber of commerce.

Stuart Nixon of San Francisco, publicity director of the Redwood Empire Assn., spoke on the history of Sonoma County. The 60-member Sir Francis Drake High School band played.

Boy, 9, Treated After Car, Bike Hit

Craig Ronald Bacharach, 9, of 43 La Crescenta Way, San Rafael, was treated for scrapes and bruises yesterday at Marin General Hospital after the bicycle he was riding collided with a car at San Pedro and Manderly roads, just outside of San Rafael, at 8:20 a.m.

Craig was riding east on San Pedro Road when a car driven in the same direction by Katherine Pantazes, 38, of 50 Deer Park Avenue, San Rafael, collided with his bicycle, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Law Covers Curb On Skateboards In Ross

Ross Police Chief Joseph J. Regoni doesn't need a new ordinance to crack down on skateboards, he was reassured by the town council last night. A law already on the books will take care of it.

The chief said youngsters on the skateboards are causing gray hairs for him and the citizenry of Ross. He related stopping his police car "just four feet away from one youngster roaring down a driveway into the street on a skateboard. "It could have been a coroner's case," he said.

"Skateboards are almost the same as roller skates, aren't they?" suggested Mayor Fred Allen. He and City Atty. Robert W. Elliott agreed that an existing ordinance prohibits them on roadways.

The mayor and city attorney suggested notifying parents that their youngsters have been breaking the law, and that it must be enforced.

Councilmen asked Chief Regoni how his bicycle registration program is progressing. Slowly, he reported, but a school assembly will be held before summer vacation, to complete the project.

A Ross Parent-Teacher Assn. spokesman in the audience added that her organization and school officials plan an assembly May 23, at which the youngsters can pay their $1 bike license fees.

The Ross Town Council also:

1. Granted fare increases to Yellow Cab of Ross, bringing its charges into line with surrounding cities' taxi service, and received a franchise request from Redwood Taxicab Co., which formerly served Ross.

2. Continued hearing on John P. Vetronile's plans for a home on his steep lot on Southwood Avenue at Ivy Drive, after City Engineer John C. Oglesby raised questions of drainage, driveway construction and other factors.

3. Deadlocked, 2-2, on a motion to deny Mrs. Ethel M. Brown a permit to build a carport against a neighbor's swimming pool fence. The matter will be revived when a full council is present. (Councilman William Bricca was absent last night.)

4. Awarded a contract for seal coating of Sir Francis Drake Boulevard to I. J. Ely Co. of Larkspur, on a low bid of $6,677.30. Five bids were opened, ranging up to $11,000.

5. Enacted the model countywide animal control ordinance.

6. Heard a request from Mrs. A. C. Green Jr. and Mrs. Leona Stafford of the Ross summer recreation program to increase city contributions from $550 to $1,100 next year. No action can be taker until budget hearings, probably in July, councilmen explained.

Paradise Drive Property Owners Elect Officers

Ralph Wertheimer of 4930 Paradise Drive, Tiburon, was elected chairman of the Paradise Drive Property Owners Assn. last night.

Other officers are Dr. William Bewley, vice chairman; Mrs. William Carter, secretary; William Di Grazia, treasurer, and area representatives Mrs. Stephen Nash, Grant Waggoner, Dr. William Bewley, Col. E. John Robb and William Carroll.

Speakers at the meeting were Gerald Talbot, director of Tiburon laboratories, of the U.S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries, and Lester Goodyear, project engineer for the U.S. Bureau of Mines at the former Tiburon Naval Net Depot.

Dr. J. M. Stubblebine of the Tamalpais Union High School District board and Leo Souza, Reed School District board member, spoke on the proposed unification of all school districts within the Tamalpais District.

LEGISLATURE TAKES A BREAK FROM BUDGET

SACRAMENTO (AP) — If a taxpayer came to Sacramento to watch the legislature's heralded battle of the budget today, all he'd find is empty conference rooms and silent chambers.

For the lawmakers — in no apparent hurry to complete their business — adjourned for another three-day weekend yesterday.

They'll be back Monday and a Senate-Assembly conference committee will begin working out a final budget to send to Gov. Edmund G. Brown.

Cranston Has Slight Edge Over Salinger

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Californians watched today as their neighbors in Oregon balloted in the last major Republican presidential primary before the crucial June 2 Rockefeller-Goldwater showdown here.

The action to the north over shadowed the Democratic senatorial campaign in California, where one new poll indicated the race between Pierre Salinger and Alan Cranston is a tossup.

Yesterday, key men in the effort to draft Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge for the GOP White House nomination denied reports they would soon urge California voters to get behind New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller in an effort to block Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater.

The governor and senator are the only choices confronting Golden State Republicans.

In the senatorial contest, the Long Beach Independent, Press-Telegram reported in a copyrighted story that a poll taken for it showed Cranston favored over Salinger, 32.9 per cent to 32.3.

The Opinion Research of California poll also said 24.8 per cent of the Democrats were undecided, while incumbent Clair Engle — whose name is on the ballot although he's withdrawn — had 7.4 per cent.

The third major candidate, pension promoter George McLain, had 2.6 per cent. Yesterday he told a Young Democrats meeting at Fresno State College that "Your future and that of the country will be bleak indeed, if some revoluntionary new federal programs are not instituted. I'm just the man to get some action."

"If you vote for me, you won't be electing a politician or time bomb." McLain, who drew more than 600,000 votes in the 1962 Democratic gubernatorial primary, pledged to fight for an end to the peacetime draft and a shutdown of munitions factories if elected.

Cranston told a $100-a-plate dinner in San Francisco last night that "the latest polls will show me ahead."

In a speech devoted mainly to foreign affairs, the state controller said "the time could not be more favorable for America to seize the diplomatic initiative . . . Evidence in Cuba and elsewhere confirms that America is now in a position to seek settlements, favorable to us, of long standing disagreements with the Soviet Union."

In the same hotel at the same time at another $100-a-plater, GOP senatorial candidate Lee Kaiser termed himself a "card-carrying capitalist" and urged unity against "bigger and greedier national government."

Former Kentfield Man Fined For Vet Tax Exemption

Edward D. Lederman, 58-year-old former Kentfield real estate man who pleaded guilty March 25 to filing a false written statement for a veteran's tax exemption, yesterday was fined $220 in Marin Municipal Court and placed on three years probation.

Judge Leonard A. Thomas also ordered resitution to Marin County of the money falsely withheld and directed that Lederman obtain psychiatric aid at discretion of the probation office.

Lederman, now of San Francisco, originally was charged with perjury in the 1963 exemption filing.

Burglary Suspect Is Bound Over

Eugene Andrew Boehm, 19, of 1446 Lincoln Avenue, San Rafael, was bound over to Marin Superior Court yesterday for trial on a charge of burglary.

Cranston on Esthetics

On Conservation

A CANDIDATE for high office has now declared himself in favor of natural beauty as against the fast buck and California's primary campaign has suddenly acquired merit.

"The time has come," said Alan Cranston, campaigning for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, "to call a halt to indiscriminate planning that rides roughshod over the interests of a community and values the dollar more highly than esthetics."

What he called "the bulldozer philosophy" that even now threatens to convert California into a "wasteland of smokestacks, concrete and steel." He explicitly denounced the official state of mind that would chop down a grove of redwood trees to carve a route for a freeway.

It is refreshing at this time to find a decent respect for esthetics and natural grandeur and open space and recreational areas creeping into an election campaign. It would be comforting if more candidates for more offices would recognize the existence of what is one of the most important domestic issues of the day and take a stand on the side of the vanishing and irreplaceable natural resources that are being recklessly sacrificed to the bulldozer and cement mixer.

Incorporation Is Explored At Tiburon

Representatives of three new California cities, Pleasant Hill, Woodside and Novato, explored the joys and tribulations of incorporation Wednesday night for an audience of 70 Tiburon residents in the Reed School Auditorium.

Merritt K. Ruddock, new Belvedere mayor, introduced the guests, saying to the audience, "Belvedere hopes you are successful in your incorporation efforts in June."

Mayor Martin McLaren and City Mgr. Leland Walton of Pleasant Hill described their city's experiences since incorporating two and one-half years ago. McLaren said the issues which forced incorporation of Pleasant Hill were "controlled zoning, road improvement, and police protection," and all had been achieved. Pleasant Hill has one-half the assessed valuation of Tiburon on a per capita basis but has no property tax, he reported.

Walton said "problems develop when people lose sight of the previous level of county services and desire a greater level of city services across the board." He said Pleasant Hill has had "superb service from the county on sheriff and road maintenance services."

The city is now bringing in new developments in order to avoid a property tax, he said. It has spent $700,000 for road improvements without a property tax, according to Walton. Pleasant Hill has 10 city employees.

Mayor Donald Graham of Woodside said his city incorporated to retain its rural atmosphere and referred humorously to the fight with the Atomic Energy Commission over power poles. He said a city can "bring pressure when needed whereas as a neighborhood group within a county, you can't."

Graham said he would like to see Tiburon incorporate but on a minimum level. Woodside, population 4,200, has a full-time city clerk and two supporting personnel, a seven-man council elected at large but representating districts, a seven-man planning commission, 17-million-dollar assessed valuation, and a 25-cent tax rate, according to Graham.

(The proposed city of Tiburon has a population of 4,700 and assessed valuation of a little under 10 million dollars.)

Graham emphasized the need for a high calibre planning consultant who knows the area to serve the need of a city experiencing rapid growth.

Clark M. Palmer Jr., Novato city attorney, described how his city has progressed since January, 1961, when it was without a single city ordinance to the present. Novato now has 50 employees and a property tax of 34-cents on an assessed valuation comparable to Woodside. Palmer said all services with the county have been phased out and except for fire, water, and sanitary, services are provided by the city.

In a lively discussion following the panel, Walton urged "the people in Tiburon to take advantage of all available revenues . . . especially with regard to the larger agencies." He referred to a law whereby $3 is refunded on every $4 spent in community master planning. He also spoke of the "open-space money available for acquisition of open area green belts held open in perpetuity."

Remove Dry Grass

People should remove dry grasses from their fences and especially away from vicinity of their homes, Carl O. Heynen Jr., fire chief of Alto-Richardson Bay Fire Department said today. He said permits are now required in the Alto District for incinerator and barbecue fires.

County Aides Split On Gallinas Creek

and the public works department. He doubted that the engineering work could be scheduled quickly.

County Planning Director B. D. Dobbs recommended the district be formed, saying improvement of the channel behind homes on Vendola Drive in Gallinas Village would improve property values in an area which is starting to deteriorate.

Asst. Public Works Director Arthur T. Knutsen said he would rather see a county service area formed.

Knutsen came under fire from residents of the proposed district because the boundaries as drawn by the department, excluded several homes on Mark Twain Avenue backing onto a ditch which drains the Civic Center Lagoon.

Knutsen said these homes should be included only if the county Civic Center is also included. Also he said a decision must be made first on whether the lagoon is to have a yacht harbor.

County Administrator Alan Bruce said architect Aaron Green is reviewing the Civic Center and fairgrounds master plan, but at present there is no provision for a yacht harbor.

Talley said the county small craft harbors master plan several years ago put the county on record that a yacht harbor would be provided in the lagoon area, or at least on Gallinas Creek.

Resident Ronald W. Shafer said a small craft harbor district could borrow from a special fund maintained by the State Small Craft Harbors Commission for development work. He suggested a county services area could not. Asst. County Counsel Richard V. Godino said he would check to see the county could also borrow from the fund.

James Wiese, also a Santa Venetia resident pointed out that an autonomous district could control public access to the channel and franchise its use.

The proposed boundaries include land one lot deep on either side of the creek, but on the north side — the Smith Brothers Ranch — the one-parcel rule allows the line to extend as much as a quarter mile from the shore.

Commission chairman Bert W. Broemmel asked that a change be made in this line unless a special assessment district is to be formed for the major dredging work. Shafer said, however, that if the north side of the creek is developed in a marina residential fashion, fingers of water might be extended far into the Smith property, thus justifying the proposed boundary.

The commission approved three annexations to the Novato Sanitary District, including the Pleasant Valley School site, Wildhorse Valley, and the Lee property on Center Road west of the Wilson annexation.

Also approved was annexation of the site of the proposed Catholic Social Service Agency offices on Ranchitos Road to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District.

McCabe Seeks To Save Fish

"Dams proposed for California's north coastal streams could destroy what's left of the Redwood Empire's steelhead and salmon resources," Democratic Congressional aspirant George E. McCabe declared last night in San Anselmo.

The Sonoma State College administrator issued that warning in a speech at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Legislation on dams must include provisions to mitigate losses from flooding of spawning grounds and to restore steelhead and salmon runs, said McCabe. He listed four specific provisions by which to protect fish life.

"In the past 30 years, salmon and steelhead resources on the Pacific Coast have been cut in half," McCabe declared. "We must do something before it is too late."

McCabe is seeking the Democratic nomination for Congress from the First District, Marin to Del Norte.

Clifford Gerstner, president of the Marin Young Republicans, will introduce the senator. Mrs. Hilton J. Simon of Ross is chairman for the evening.

A FULL DAY

George McCabe, Democratic aspirant for Congress, had a full schedule yesterday in Marin.

He attended a luncheon at the Elks Club in San Rafael with business and professional men, toured Novato with Mayor Robert D. Carrow, met conservation leaders at his headquarters at Richardson Bay, and spoke at night at the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo.

Nicasio Tax Election, Tam Unity Collide

There was a small crowd but a lively discussion at Nicasio School last night when interest in a local school district tax election came in conflict with the Tamalpais district unification vote, both set June 2.

Henry E. Tomasini, clerk of the Nicasio School District Board, reported five citizens appeared to discuss the proposed increase in the general tax limit from 80 cents to $1.60 per $100 assessed valuation. The increase is sought to take care of increased cost and loss of assessed value due to Nicasion Reservoir.

The most controversial point raised last night centered on the proposed tax for a Tamalpais unified district. The county schools office has estimated that this will be about $4.11 per $100 of assessed value. The unified district will, of course, be budgeting for both elementary and high schools.

Tomasini declared that if the Nicasio increase should pass and a proposed increase from $2.10 to $2.70 in the general purpose tax limit in Larkspur School District should pass, the proposed tax for the Tamalpais unified district would go up seven cents to $4.18.

Tomasini said this was news to the Nicasio school board last night, and news to citizens attending the information meeting.

"We think this is a little on the dirty side," Tomasini said, explaining that it could effect the outcome of the Nicasio vote. He said he suspects there has been a conscious effort to conceal the possibility of an increase in the proposed unified district tax.

Edwin L. Blackmore, director of elementary education in the county schools office and assistant secretary to the Marin County Committee on School District Organization, declared today that there has been no effort at concealment.

The county committee is the unit that studies and recommends unifications. In its recommendation of the Tamalpais unified district it said that the general fund tax for the unified district, should it be approved, should not be more than that necessary to produce the same revenue that would be produced by all individual districts during the year prior to unification.

The $4.11 estimate is nothing but a "weighted average of all tax limits," Blackmore said. It does not take into account the fact that some districts are not now levying the full limit of their general purpose tax.

If the Larkspur and Nicasio tax limits should be increased, the weighted average would increase.

Blackmore said it is impossible to make any kind of actuary study on the unified district tax because neither the assessed value nor the budget is known.

If the unified district is approved, it will officially take form July 1, 1965.

A clergyman who bought Shakespeare's house in Stratford-upon-Avon in the 18th century became so angry at sight-seers peering over the fence that he hacked down a mulberry tree said to have been planted by the poet. The parson was run out of town after he demolished the house itself.

Gallinas Area Annex Plan Is Presented

Plans for improvements required for annexation of Gallinas Village were presented last night to Las Gallinas Sanitary Distric directors by District Engineer J. Warren Nute. No cost estimates were announced.

Directors invited representatives of International Investment Co., developers in the subdivision, the county counsel's office, and Gallins Village Community Services District to discuss the plans June 14.

At that time bids can be called if the court dispute between the community services district and the county and developer has been settled.

The board set a special meeting for next Thursday to discuss a flood control proposal.

Improvements for San Rafael Meadows and Terra Linda unit 20 were accepted, and the board asked county supervisors to dissolve the San Rafael Meadows Sewer Maintenance District.

One earthquake zone stretches from the West Indies across the Atlantic to the Mediterranean and through the Himalayas to the East Indies.

Testing Of Water Held Financially Impossible

Directors of the Gallinas Village Community services district last night voted to inform the Bay Area Water Pollution Control Board that it was a financial impossibility for the district to begin taking all the periodic tests of water in Gallinas Creek demanded by the board.

Testing originally was done by the county, but discontinued after an agreement was reached that the community services district should turn over sewer operations to the Las Gallinas Valley Sanitary District.

Newsrack Thefts

Two newsracks with the coin boxes broken open were found on a dirt road at Peacock Gap yesterday. San Rafael police had no report of stolen racks that would explain where these two had been taken. One was for the San Francisco Examiner, the other for the Independent-Journal.

Easy Courses Revealed In Grades Study

Students who wanted nearly guaranteed passing grades last year at College of Marin should have taken biology, journalism, physical education theory, education, and a physical education activity class.

Less than 6 per cent of the students enrolled in those classes received Ds or Fs, far below the college's average of 12 per cent of barely passing or failing grades in all classes.

The roughest courses were astronomy, history, English composition, political science, philosophy and mathematics, in which more students got Ds and Fs than As and Bs.

A report on grade distribution during last fall semester was presented to the college's board of trustees last night by Paul M. Clymer, dean of instruction.

Dr. Stephen E. Epler, college president, said the low percentage of high grades in English composition, history and political science resulted from these courses being required for graduation. Students have to take them, whether they want to or not, and sometimes don't put full effort into them, he explained.

In contrast, there were less than 11 per cent D and F grades in art, music, architecture, home economics, vocational nursing, vocational courses for prospective firemen and policemen, speech and sociology.

Epler said there were two and sometimes three levels of work in the academic subjects to provide instruction for vocational students as well as those planning to continue their education after graduation.

Outlay Budget Is Reviewed At College

The tentative $84,742 capital outlay budget for 1964-65 for the College of Marin was reviewed last night by members of the board of trustees.

Acceptance of the budget, which is $11,354 less than last year's allocation, was postponed until the entire board was present.

Discussion of the remaining portions of the budget was set for the board's meeting next Thursday at 8 p.m.

Present were Trustees Robert E. Oliver, Robert E. Rogers and Kent O. Seymour.

In other business, the board:

1. Received a report of the science, engineering and mathematics division from Carlton E. Cherry, division chairman, who stated there was an increase in the number of students in the division preparing to continue their education after graduation in universities to which they have transferred, Cherry reported.

2. Heard a report that President Stephen E. Epler will appear before the Marin County Grand Jury next Monday to discuss vocational education.

3. Received a report from Irwin P. Diamond, dean of students, on a summer school program to ready high school graduates for entrance. The "block" program will consist of three classes. They are "communications 50," emphasizing grammar, punctuation and sentence organization, reading comprehension and vocabulary building"; reading 10, "to increase efficient reading; and "Phychology 48C," a study of vocation selection.

Mosquito Abatement Taxes Will Probably Remain Same

Marin County Mosquito Abatement District probably won't put the bite on the taxpayer any harder next fall, even though district spending may increase $6,000 to $10,000 over the current budget, Manager G. Paul Jones told the board of directors last night. He predicted the present tax rate of three cents per $100 assessed valuation will remaini, due to a higher assessment base and cash surplus.

He presented a tentative budget og $102,000, but still must get firmer prices on two trucks the district plans to buy. These may add $4,000 to the district's outlay for fiscal 1964-65, he explained.

Jones added that he also plans to confer with County Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell to determine what surplus can be carried over from this year's budget. This will be available when the mosquito district board adopts its budget on June 11, he said.

District directors took final routine action last night on annexing 1,563 acres to the district, west of Sutro Avenue and south of Vineyard Road in the Novato area.

They also voted to continue participating in the county's California Physician's Service health plan for district employees, after County Treasurer Collector Stanley J. Fontez reported on the system's advantage.

Corte Madera Video Antenna Plan Gains

The Corte Madera Planning Commission last night granted approval for a two-way radio and community television antenna system installation on the Corte Madera Ridge.

The request was made by Richard D. Spight, vice president of Television Communications Inc. of San Francisco. Final approval on construction of the system hinges on the town council granting a franchise to the firm.

The Corte Madera Planning Commission also:

1. Heard that the application for variances on about 20 lots in Mariner Highlands Unit 3 had been dropped because the developer had dropped his option on the lots.

2. Recommended to the town council that an amendment to the subdivision ordinance be adopted requiring underground utility lines in all new subdivisions.

3. Scheduled for its June 8 meeting public hearing on a proposed slope conservation policy and decided to tour the wooded area above Corte Madera Avenue June 7 at 9 a.m.

4. Sent to Town Mgr. Arthur H. Brandow for study an amendment to the zoning ordinance which would require submission of architectural drawings done by a qualified person to the board of design and planning commission.

5. Reappointed Harold B. Wagstaff to the board of design.

Salinger In Marin Tomorrow

A crowd of about 1,000 is expected tomorrow noon at a picnic for Pierre Salinger in Novato, campaign manager Don Bradley estimated.

Another 600 are expected to attend two dinners tomorrow night, one at Rickey's Rancho Rafael at 7:30 p.m. and another at Mill Valley Outdoor Art Club at 8:30 p.m.

Salinger, seeking the Democratic nomination for U.S. Senate, will make a major speech at the Rancho Rafael dinner. He will discuss conservation and answer questions on both domestic and foreign affairs.

Salinger will attend the picnic, on the Patterson Ranch at Seventh Street and Grant Avenue and the dinner at the Outdoor Art Club.

About 250 tickets have been sold for the Mill Valley dinner, and 350 are expected at Rancho Rafael, said Bradley.

College Gets Rare Redwoods

NORMAN PARK, Ga. (AP) — A rare tree known at the Dawn Redwood, which once was believed to be extinct, is being planted on the campus of Norman College.

The tree is a gift from Harvey Templeton of Winchester, Tenn.

A few of the Dawn Redwood trees were found in China in 1945 by a Harvard expedition and some of the seeds were brought to the United States.

The tree grows rapidly. James S. Spooner, professor of biology, said one at Oak Ridge, Tenn., has grown as much as 10 feet in a year.

Future Of House Is At Stake

The future of a 60-year-old wood, shingled house will be at stake Monday night before the Mill Valley City Council.

Building Inspector Herbert W. Street has declared the house at 164 Sycamore Avenue a public nuisance and wants it demolished, starting in 30 days.

Says Street: The building has no foundation, floors are sagging, bathroom opens onto the kitchen, there is improper plumbing, ceiling heights are five foot four and six foot 10 inches, and the porch is collapsing.

Owner Marcel J. Bouscal, who runs a Blind and Shade Co. in San Francisco where he also lives, said today, "I will fight the order to abate."

Street has told Bouscal it would cost in excess of 50 per cent of the value of the building to repair it for occupancy, and therefore under the law it must be torn down.

Bouscal says that by using his own labor, which he says is "no charge," and some materials which he already has in San Francisco, he can put the house in shape for $214.

Meanwhile the sign posted outside says: "Do not enter—unsafe to occupy."

Two Racing Turtles Are Reported Stolen

Loss or theft of two racing turtles, total value $10, was reported to Marin County sheriff's office yesterday by George Cagwin, 39 Vendola Drive, Santa Venetia.

Cagwin said the turtles, with shells about 10 inches in diameter, are missing from a tub containing about 14 other turtles in his back yard.

Empire Supervisors Right To Back 2nd Bay Crossing

Rapid transit seems to be the only ultimate solution to the Bay Area traffic problem, as we have said in this space before. New bridges or new decks for private automobile traffic alone cannot possibly keep up with the growth.

In Lake County last week, the Supervisors Unit of the Redwood Empire Assn. tackled the problem. They came up with an urgent call for an immediate study of a new bay crossing between Marin and San Francisco. Such a crossing would logically include rapid transit facilities.

A new crossing is at least seven or eight years away. But such a crossing, with rapid transit facilities, we still believe is the best long-range solution.

Rapid transit over Richmond-San Rafael Bridge, meshing with the Bay Area Rapid Transit system, could possibly relieve some of the pressure. But since the bulk of our traffic is oriented toward San Francisco and the Peninsula, rapid transit in that direction seems inevitably necessary in the long run.

Sobering facts were laid out before the Supervisors Unit of the Redwood Empire Assn. The facts came from engineers of the Golden Gate Bridge and the state Division of Bay Toll Crossings, and an official of the Bay Area Rapid Transit District.

For example, in 1953, about 12 million cars crossed the Golden Gate. In 1963, ten years later, 23 million crossed. Capacity of the bridge is 25 million. This will be reached next year.

Would not a lower deck on the Gate span help? Yes, but relief would be only temporary. Besides, engineers disagree on the advisability of a second deck. A few more lanes for cars might be feasible, but they warn against any rapid transit trains on suspension bridges. A train at 30 miles per hour may be tolerable. But at 70 miles per hour, a rapid stop can bring dangerous stresses on a suspension span, which the Golden Gate is.

Consensus is that we shouldn't tamper with the bridge any more than absolutely necessary.

Marin has a big stake in a new crossing or lack of it. Thomas Bertken, advance planning engineer for Bay Toll Crossings, says that Marin and Sonoma generate 91 per cent of the Golden Gate Bridge traffic. By 1980, Marin's population will triple and Sonoma's will double.

A second crossing would divert 45 per cent of the Golden Gate traffic. This would take care of traffic needs to 1990. By 1980, the new crossing will be handling 22½ million cars, and the Gate span 19 million. Put transit facilities on the new crossing, and the capacity will be even larger.

Without a new crossing, by 1980, three million cars that would normally cross the Golden Gate span would be taking the circuitous Richmond-San Rafael and Oakland-Bay Bridges.

We agree with the Redwood Empire Assn. Supervisor Unit that a second crossing needs immediate attention—and with rapid transit facilities provided for. As one engineer put it, "Time has already run out."

DON'T WORRY, NEPHEW—

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Political Seers Tend To Ignore Eisenhower's Continued Impact

WASHINGTON — There is one powerful force bearing on the Republican presidential nomination which is being consistently overlooked.

That force is the prestige, vote-getting leverage and concern which Dwight D. Eisenhower can bring to the decision to be made in San Francisco—or before.

THE CANDIDATE who can win General Eisenhower's support at the convention will have something almost as good as delegates — an ally capable of persuading delegates.

Will General Eisenhower be inclined to try to steer the convention to a nominee he could whole-heartedly endorse?

Some Republican leaders think that General Eisenhower will remain completely neutral, simply make a nice little speech at San Francisco, and pledge that he will back any nominee with equal enthusiasm. And they doubt whether he could influence the choice significantly, even if he tried.

MANY OTHER Republicans believe General Eisenhower is capable of exerting large influence on the convention and hope he will.

After winning two elections with massive majorities, he retains, even in retirement, tremendous prestige and popularity.

Example: Ambassador Lodge's rating went rapidly up when a news story reported that he was General Eisenhower's first choice. Even when this account was contradicted, Mr. Lodge continued to benefit.

ANOTHER example: in all their radio and television campaigning in New Hampshire and Oregon, the Lodge people used Mr. Eisenhower's warm introductions of the ambassador when he was stumping as the vice presidential nominee in 1960. Ike's arm visibly around Lodge's shoulder has been a definite asset.

It is evident, I think, that General Eisenhower has three incentives for wanting to influence the nomination.

He wants to see the Republican nominee carry forward the Eisenhower administration policies — not repudiate them.

He wants to campaign extensively and enthusiastically for the Republican ticket, wants to do his best to repair what he feels was the mistake of his not campaigning sufficiently for Mr. Nixon in 1960.

HE CAN CAMPAIGN unreservedly for the Republican ticket only if the nominee is one he can endorse unreservedly.

He has recently asked some of his closest political friends to canvass the support which might be developed for making his brother, Dr. Milton Eisenhower of Johns Hopkins University, the vice presidential nominee.

If Sen. Barry Goldwater can get enough committed delegates in advance of the convention to make a first-ballot nomination nearly certain, Mr. Eisenhower would not likely try to break it up. It would be an impossible task.

NO ONE WHO knows General Eisenhower believes he will oppose Senator Goldwater directly. But the non-Goldwater Republican leaders devoutly hope he will, in advance of the convention, re-state the policies he feels the party must stand for and thus invite the convention to choose a nominee who can conscientiously stand on such a platform.

WHAT DOES THE Marin voter think about the initiative to nullify the Rumford Act? Or a proposed state lottery, or a system of withholding state income tax?

Answers to these questions will be forthcoming soon through a poll being conducted by State Sen. John F. McCarthy of San Rafael.

The senator sent out about 2,000 questionnaires, of which 500 or 600 have been returned. He plans to announce the results after he completes tabulating all the returns.

OTHER QUESTIONS posed by McCarthy are on the county-wide equalization of school taxes; various bond issues for school construction, beaches and parks, and farm labor housing; and other tax increase proposals, such as on cigarettes, liquor and retail sales.

Accuracy of the poll will depend on whether the sampling survey reached all segments of the community and whether the replies come from a representative cross-section.

HERE ARE SOME unusual sidelights in the supervisorial race. You think of Larkspur-Corte Madera as in William Fusselman's District 2. But by some strange quirk of annexation, a part of Corte Madera (Marin Estates vicinity) is in Supervisor Peter Behr's Third District (Southern Marin).

And a part of Mill Valley has been annexed into Fusselman's District 2. It's a portion of Mill Valley where it meets Larkspur. But Behr won't lose any votes by loss of this little portion because we understand it's mostly unimproved and uninhabited.

THE "JOHN McINNIS for Supervisor" camp claims its candidate is getting "wide" support — from as far as Southern California. They point with pride to a $50 campaign contribution from a Louis Kanister, who is a member of the Los Angeles Regional Planning Commission.

Seems McInnis met Kanister through the Assn. of Bay Area Governments and the state Regional Planning Advisory Committee, and when Kanister heard McInnis was running, he promptly mailed the check.

WE HAVEN'T BEEN out West Marin way recently and have no first-hand information on how the supervisor race is going for District 4. But through the grapevine, we keep hearing rumors that incumbent George Ludy of Inverness and Bolinas insurance man James Dougan are leading in the four-way race.

The other two, attorney Tom Storer and builder John Keilty, seem to be in the role of underdogs, although Storer might surprise some of the political prophets.

Here's an astute observation made by a local candidate: "I'm not against commuters, because there sure are a lot of them!"

REMEMBER WHEN?

10 YEARS AGO

Dedication services and open house for the new James B. Davidson School in San Rafael were set for March 28.

20 YEARS AGO

All meats except beef steaks and beef roasts were ordered removed from rationing by Price Administrator Chester Bowles. San Rafael stores advertised point-free corned beef for 35 cents a pound, picnic hams for 32 cents, and breast of lamb for 20 cents.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Senior Citizens Month Hollow

Editor, Independent-Journal:

May has been proclaimed by President Johnson as Senior Citizen Month. For your personal information, I think less than nothing of these special months (of any kind) unless something useful and productive comes out of them, not just for the special group for which the month is celebrated, but for the community as a whole.

I could think of nothing more empty than newspaper, radio and TV "celebration" of Senior Citizen Month if there is no activity of substance and meaning to go along with it.

So far as I know, there will be no Senior Citizen Month activities in the county worth reporting. There should be, and I shall be aiming for such for May, 1965....

Some Ideas On Treating Deer

Editor, Independent-Journal:

This letter is in answer to Mrs. Perkins' letter. I have been told that there is little to be done about foraging deer. You might fence in your property or put chicken wire around bushes or plant oleanders and Scotch broom. These two bushes used as a hedge are not liked by deer. We have Cecil Bruners and Paul Scarletts cascading over our fence and they are untouched. Of course, we have a little dog loose in the yard, which helps.

The deer are not starving yet, but all these lush green leaves are better fare than the drying grass. But whatever you do, do not call the police or they may shoot them as the San Rafael police did last week.

Epilepsy Victims Not To Be Feared

Editor, Independent-Journal:

I have been concerned about some of the distorted impressions that came out of the Ruby trial and about people with epilepsy. I was, therefore, very happy to read in the Jan. 13 issue of the Journal of the Americal Medical Assn. a letter to the editor by Dr. Samuel Livingston of Baltimore, who expresses more lucidly than I can some concepts about epilepsy.

Dr. Livingston pointed out that since the Ruby trial a number of people have become concerned and frightened that a person with epilepsy might be more capable of committing murder than a person without epilepsy. Dr. Livingston's findings were in agreement with those of Alstrom, namely, that a person with epilepsy is no more apt to be involved in criminality than a person from the general population. Dr. Livingston went on to say, and I quote him, "I certainly would not question the fact that an epileptic might kill, not because he has epilepsy but because he is a human being. However, I would like to state emphatically that the violation of the Sixth Commandment is not indigenous to epilepsy and that an epileptic is no more a potential murderer than the so-called 'normal' individual."

I think it is important for the public to realize what many professionals have been working many years to communicate, namely, that epilepsy is a common disease, and that it affects people from all walks of life, and that people with epilepsy can play an important, positive role in their community, and that one does not have to be afraid or hysterical about people who have epilepsy.

School Prayers Unconstitutional

Editor, Independent-Journal:

A recent photo of Alabama's Governor Wallace, testifying in favor of the "Becker School Prayer Amendment" proposal before the House Judiciary Committee, "gives one pause."

The fact that this arch-segregationist finds it necessary to interrupt his national "apartheid" campaign in order to plead for the need of school prayers "to strengthen our moral (sic!) values" epitomizes the blatant fallacy of this approach to religion.

Such legislation would be a clear violation of the First Amendment. When our founding fathers put into the Constitution the statement that "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion or prohibiting the free exercise thereof", the intent was to preserve freedom AND religion. Laws and regulations prescribing prayers or devotional exercises DO NOT contribute increased faith, reverence, nor morality. An imposed "nonpartisan" Bible reading or appeal to the Diety would be a meaningless, vacuous gesture, assailing our traditional separation of Church and State without any benefit to either child, school system, nor society. The fraudulent assertion that only Godless and anti-religious bigots oppose this bill is amply rebutted by the many Protestant and Jewish groups who have vigorously objected.

Congressmen who fail to support this type of legislation have been threatened with the "Godless" label—at the next election.

It is up to the electorate to indicate to Washington that they will not be stampeded into approving a blow against the Bill of Rights by fear of being stamped "anti-religious."

If an unpalatable Supreme Court decision can successfully initiate a massive legislative alteration of Constitutional philosophy — then the basis of our "way of life" is in jeopardy.

THE ALLEN-SCOTT REPORT

Hard-Hit Alaskans' Aid Interest High

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and PAUL SCOTT

WASHINGTON—It's a lot more advantageous being a foreigner seeking U. S. aid than a native American hard-hit by a natural catastrophe.

The foreigner can get a 40-year loan at ¾ of 1 per cent interest, starting with a 10-year moratorium on the interest, while the best the American can expect from his own government is a 30-year loan at 3 per cent interest, with a one-year moratorium.

That's the bitter discovery of thousands of Alaskan businessmen, homeowners and others wiped out completely or crippled by the devastating earthquake and tidal wave.

ANOTHER ASTONISHING aspect of this incomprehensible double standard is that it's due primarily to bureaucratic officiousness.

The law does not require Eugene Foley, head of the Small Business Administration, to demand 3 per cent interest on disaster loans. The Disaster Loan Act expressly stipulates the rate shall not exceed 3 per cent. Up to that ceiling, Foley has complete authority to specify any figure.

But he is adamantly insisting that economically shattered Alaskans pay the maximum 3 per cent rate.

Sen. Ernest Gruening (D-Alaska), vigorously spearheading the drive for all-out aid for his ravaged state, in denouncing Foley's tight-fisted policy, caustically pointed out that Pakistani and other foreigners whose governments are thumbing their noses at the U. S. are getting many millions in long-term loans at ¾ of 1 per cent interest with 10-year interest moratoriums.

PAKISTAN, WHICH has established diplomatic relations with Red China and opened a direct airline between them, has received more than 623 million dollars in such "soft-term" loans. The over-all total of these loans to foreign countries is upwards of 2.63 billion dollars.

Gruening is not only demanding that this amazing discrimination against stricken Americans be halted, but that some of the hundreds of millions of unspent foreign aid funds be made available to needy Alaskans.

The situation is certain to play a major role in the coming battle over President Lyndon B. Johnson's 3.4-billion-dollar foreign aid budget.

IN A FERVENT appeal to Small Business Administrator Foley to ease his 3 per cent interest stand, Senator Gruening stressed that this policy is directly contrary to that of the foreign aid agency which is making loans "directly to private industries in foreign countries at ¾ of 1 per cent interest."

"I can see no reason why such terms should not be afforded Alaskan economic victims of the earthquake," Gruening told Foley. "Otherwise, a permanent double standard would be established under which we would be unable to do for our own people what we are doing abroad. For a man who has lost his business, the building that has housed it and the inventory, and still has a loan on either or both at the bank, the difference between 3 per cent and ¾ of 1 per cent may well be the difference between recovery and failure."

So far, Foley has not budged and there is no indication he will unless ordered to do so by higher authority —the White House. Whether the president will intervene remains to be seen.

BENNETT CERF

TWO CRUSTY OLD Vermonters were neighbors, but hadn't spoken to each other for 30 years. Suddenly one of them drove up to the other's front door. "I ain't here to banter friendly words with you," he snapped at his astonished neighbor. "I just come to tell you I'm running for mayor, but I don't want your vote nor the vote of any one of your dang-busted family."

The neighbor's face flushed with anger. "See here," you varmint," he spluttered. "Me and my family has voted a straight Republican ticket since Abe Lincoln, and if you don't want our votes, you're just goin' to have to take yourself off the blankety-blank ticket."

"LOOK AT THE shabby old frock I have to wear," grumbled Mrs. Black to her husband. "If one of your office friends came to call, he'd think I was the cook. Replied Mr. Black, unperturbed, "He'd change his mind if he stayed for dinner!"

CAMPUS HUMOR:

1. CUSTOMER: Waiter! I just found this hair in my turtle soup.

WAITER: Well, well! So the turtle and the hair finally got together!

STUDENT: Pa, you just don't understand. Those are the cars that belong to the faculty.

What's Happened To Civic Center Pay-As-You-Go Financing Plan?

FOR SOME STRANGE reason there has been nary a peep out of persons who would ordinarily be especially interested in whether the county has thrown in the sponge on the question of pay-as-you-go financing for the second wing of the Marin County Civic Center.

The recommended budget from the county administrator's office does not include enough money for the year to keep up with the schedule for financing the building on time.

Incidentally, nowhere in the county administrator's budget message to the board of supervisors, released by Alan Bruce today, is there any mention of the impact in the cut on appropriations for capital improvements on the pay-as-you-go financing at the Civic Center.

THE PROPOSAL called for raising six million dollars from taxes by the time the second wing was completed. Another million and a half dollars would be raised from sale of the old courthouse in San Rafael to pay for a seven-and-a-half-million-dollar structure.

The plan, however, was predicated on a tax of 28 cents per $100 assessed valuation being levied each year. It also assumed an upper limit in the cost of the second wing.

The 1963-64 county budget had an item for capital improvements which amounted to 28.9 cents on the tax rate, but not all of this was earmarked for the Civic Center second stage. The amount set aside for that building was only 18.4 cents, according to Auditor-Controller Michael Mitchell.

HOWEVER, THE FUNDS were only about $80,000 behind schedule because of reserves gained when savings were made on the first-stage construction and use of money withheld from the contractor.

The budget recommended by County Administrator Alan Bruce for 1964-65 calls for funds raised by a 14.8-cent tax rate for the second-stage construction. The effect will be to leave the county about $450,000 below predicted estimates in the schedule.

Several things may happen. Architect Aaron Green of the Frank Lloyd Wright Foundation will bring cost estimates on the second stage before the supervisors in June. The cost could conceivably be below the 7.5-million-dollar estimate.

Or, the county supervisors could decide to push back construction one year.

OR, A MAJOR INCREASE in the tax rate could be approved.

Or, some form of deficit financing could be proposed, such as general obligation bonds or a lease-purchase arrangement.

The cost of the building will probably be higher than 7.5 million dollars. The present building cost more than five million dollars, although that did include land and some grading and underground work.

But the present building contains about 140,000 square feet, and the new wing will have about 230,000, with some special, expensive furnishings, such as a jail, where a door can cost $1,300, and courts, which require special treatment.

MRS. MARGARET AZEVEDO, after being elected head of the Marin Council for Civic Affairs, said that group would probably continue to support pay-as-you-go financing for the Civic Center, but had some doubts about how high the tax rate would have to go before this form of financing should be dropped.

If the cost of the building is much above present estimates, holding off a year on construction would not help either.

So we can watch for discussions of the county budget this year to include discussions of bond elections in one of the few counties in the United States with no bonded indebtedness.

ART BUCHWALD

Scribe 'Borrows' Youngster To Get LBJ Parley Views

WASHINGTON—As everyone knows, President Lyndon B. Johnson turned the White House into "Disneyland East" last week for the benefit of Washington reporters. In one of the most blatant attempts to seduce the members of the Fourth Estate, the president told reporters he would love to have their wives and children attend his televised press conference. The newspapermen, suspicious of the invitation, vowed they would not be taken in by such an obvious ploy to win them over, and we're happy to report that only 1,196 out of the 1,200 accredited correspondents brought their families to the White House. It shows there is still integrity in the journalistic profession, no matter what the critics say.

ALTHOUGH WE DIDN'T bring our wife or children to the party, our reasons for doing so had nothing to do with integrity. We felt that, if he had us to his house, then we would have to have his family to ours, and our wife said she just couldn't afford to feed so many Secret Service men.

But we did go to the White House alone to see the show, and we must say it was a moving experience. The kids were moving during the entire press conference.

The thing to do if you were covering this press conference was to sit next to a youngster and get his cute impressions of the affair. Many reporter-fathers interviewed their own children, others had their children write their stories, and still others made up quotes of things their children might have said.

Since we didn't have a child of our own, we sat next to a cute little fellow with a crew cut, a tiny bow tie, and candy-striped linen sports jacket.

"What do you think of the press conference?" we asked him.

"I think it's a good idea," he replied. "It gives Johnson a change of pace and I guess he figures he can make up for all the bad beagle publicity."

"Is there anything particular that impresses you?"

"I'M SURPRISED he's using a teleprompter," the little fellow said. "But I imagine it's better than reading from a script."

The president started to speak. He announced he was sending Secretary Robert S. McNamara to Vietnam after a visit to Bonn.

"I'm inclined to think that is a mistake," our little friend said. "He shouldn't use McNamara as an errand boy. It will make the Vietnamese lose faith in Lodge."

THE PRESIDENT continued by going into detail on his Latin-aid program. He said he planned to sign several new loan agreements and commitment letters for new South American development projects.

Our little friend sighed. "Now he's lost me. I must say you have to listen to an awful lot of bilge before you can get your picture taken with the president these days."

BARRING WAR

Trend To Affluence Likely To Continue

NEW YORK (WPS) — The trend to affluence in the United States is expected to continue steadily upward during the next decade, according to a new study by the 20 Century Fund titled, "U.S.A. And Its Economic Future."

In 1975 the average family income will be $9,525 per year (computed at 1960 dollar value), and the average work week will run around 37 hours. National income will approach a trillion dollars.

But attendant on this rosy projection are problems concerning the nature of living and working in 1975—for some, at least.

For example, "the unskilled and the uneducated will find it increasingly difficult to get jobs in the nation's industries, trades and services," according to the author, Arnold B. Barach.

The reason, of course, is that the new affluence stems from increasingly mechanized and automated production. It is predicted that by 1975 the average U.S. worker will produce 53 per cent more goods and services than in 1962. Industrial production will be double the 1960 figure.

Those hardest hit by the consequences of the technological revolution are young people and Negroes. In 1962, unemployment was 16 per cent among the youngest employables—the 16 and 17-year-olds. In the recession year of 1961, unemployment among Negroes was about twice the general rate of 6.7 per cent.

The social wake of America's growing productive capability has an international counterpart. As a world power the U.S. has a limit placed on its influence by its payments balance. That is, the U.S. dollar must stay sound and that requires a level of U.S. exports to match or top the sum of its purchases and aid outlays of all types.

Despite the wailing sometimes heard in financial circles, the U.S. is doing pretty well in this field, the new study notes. The export surplus of the U.S. in 1962 was 5-1 billion dollars —almost four times as much as the 1.4-billion-dollar figure of 1950.

The study does not cite the political problem behind these figures, however. Great segments of the U.S. productive community aren't involved in the international economy of the country.

Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr., under-secretary of commerce, said in New York recently that despite the enormous (22 billion dollar) U.S. economic role in the world, it constituted only 4 per cent of the U.S. gross national product.

He clearly spends much of his time trying to involve an increasing number of U.S. firms in international business. He also commented favorably on a recent proposal of a commission named by the late President John F. Kennedy for simplifying U.S. tax laws so as to stimulate foreign investment in the U.S.

The golden glow on the economic future of the U.S., and the problems created by the nature of the expansion, also has the effect of explaining the political drives of President Lyndon B. Johnson.

The great center portion of the American population clearly wants the abcesses of underdevelopment removed from the American scene. They want full employment, better schools, more recreational facilities, public services and social tranquility.

The latter will be increasingly needed. By the late 1970s over 70 per cent of Americans will be living in metropolitan areas.

The drive of Americans for these prequisites of the well-ordered society is revealed in such figures as these:

Over three-fifths of American homes are already owner-occupied.

Average annual expenditures on public education rose from $259 per pupil in 1950 to $472 in 1960.

Concludes author Barach: "Barring war or national disaster, responsible Americans believe that perhaps for the first time in its history the United State will have the energy and the resources to erase its shortcomings and to build of a nation that was dreamed of by the men who originally created it."

Trading Heavy At End; Mart Closes Higher

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market closed higher today with trading heavy at the end and selected issues strong.

Volume for the day was estimated at 4.8 million shares compared with 4.75 million yesterday.

The rise was irregular and gainers among key stocks, up fractions to a point or so, outnumbered losers by a fair margin.

The averages were bolstered, however, by a snapback of about 5 points for Du Pont which has been under some selling pressure lately.

After an indifferent start, some of the recent speculative favorites met demand again. Texas Gulf Sulphur ran up more than 4 points. Curtis Publishing rose nearly a point. Calumet & Hecla gained a fraction.

Texas Gulf seemed to be leading the pack on activity.

Some of the cigar stocks showed strength. Consolidated Cigar rose more than a point.

IBM posted a 4-point gain. Polaroid slipped a point and Control Data more than that.

Pan American World Airways was a 1-point loser.

Xerox rose more than a point. Goodrich and MGM were up about a point each.

Prices on the American Stock Exchange were mostly higher.

Corporate bonds were mixed, with changes small. U. S. government bonds improved slightly.

Vienna's Spanish Riding School preserves a fragile but precious tradition of horsemanship that was common to the Greek world of Xenophon.

Industrial Production On The Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI)—U.S. industrial production in April took its biggest jump since last August, the Federal Reserve board said today.

Production in April rose to 129.2 per cent of the 1957-59 average — one full point above March and 5.5 per cent above a year ago.

Output of both final products and materials reached new highs, the board said.

Consumer goods production rose from 128.3 to 129 on the index and continued at about 5 per cent above last year. Auto assemblies, following a decline in March, rose to a record level in April.

Output of home goods and apparel increased six-tenths of a point, while production of consumer staples rose eight-tenths of a point.

U.S. Business Issues Must Be Resolved During Summer

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The political furor tends either to hide or distort the business perplexities which also may be resolved this summer. And these largely nonpolitical issues can set the pattern for the income you may expect and the prices you may find on the goods and services you want.

The party campaigns are being waged against a background of general prosperity and growing confidence. At the midpoint in the second quarter of the year the majority of reports show the economy at new heights with good chances of going still higher if—

The ifs can be important. And sime should become clear before election time.

On the income side there are new wage patterns to be hammered out this summer, with chief interest centered on the auto industry.

Washington is trying hard to get both labor and management to follow what it calls guidelines. Primarily they preach moderation. Washington wants labor to ask for pay increases that won't upset the balance of production costs and prices. And it wants management to resist any wage demands that would force price increases.

Labor is well aware that many corporations are reporting record profits along with rising sales.

Management spokesmen are busily pointing out that profits should go still higher if new capital is to be attracted for the financing of business expansion to meet the goals of economic growth.

Many businessmen feel that as soon as competition permits, or when production costs mount again, prices must go up to provide adequate profit margins on sales.

Another mystery also is expected to be solved before autumn. This is how the consumer will finally react to the federal tax cut savings.

So far he has been spending the new money moderately, saving some of it, using the rest to pay up old debts. If the consumer starts spending a lot more by fall, the pressure to hammer out sizable wage increases and to raise prices to meet the higher payroll will build up.

At issue is the possibility of another round of inflation. There is little sign of it now. There could be plenty of signs by election time.

Beware, Giants! Casey's Lowly Mets Are On The Move

The league-leading San Francisco Giants return to action in Candlestick Park tonight, 8:15 o'clock, hopeful they can fare better against the National League's 10th place team than they did against the boys in the No. 9 spot.

Manager Alvin Dark's troops, who came out of Houston wondering how the Texans ever lost the Battle of the Alamo, will open a five-game series with the New York Mets.

Billy O'Dell (0-1) will be shooting for his first victory of the year for the Giants. He will oppose Tracy Stallard (2-4), best known as the pitcher who served up the record 61st homer to Roger Maris of the Yanks.

Manager Casey Stengel's laughable New York warriors are fresh off a two-game attack which knocked Milwaukee out of a second-place tie. The Mets bombed the Braves, 12-4, yesterday.

The Colt .45's attacked from all sides in the final game with the Giants at Houston. They downed San Francisco, 4-3, last night to win the series 3-1, ended Willie Mays' batting streak at 20 consecutive games, and shackled ace reliever Bob Shaw with his first defeat of the season.

For the second night in a row, Giant pitchers had to shoulder the blame for the deciding run. A wild pitch did the damage Wednesday night, and Shaw walked a man with the bases loaded in the seventh last night to tie the game at 3-3. The Colts scored the clincher in the eighth.

The Giants got off to a fast start with one run in the first inning on a double by Chuck Hiller and a sacrifice fly by Willie McCovey. But then Bob Bruce, one of several fine Houston hurlers, bowed his neck.

The Colts tied it in the second on Rusty Staub's single and went ahead in the fourth when Staub doubled off the right centerfield fence to score Jim Wynn.

Tom Haller rapped a two-run double in the sixth to put the Giants back in front, but Shaw then ran into trouble with wildness in the seventh and the die was cast. Shaw, whose record is now 3-1, came on for starter Jack Sanford in the sixth.

Bruce, in lifting his record to 4-1, was tough on the Giants through the eight innings he worked. He fanned 10 and scattered eight hits, before Hal Woodeshick came on to pitch the final inning.

The best shot Mays had at extending his hitting record to 21 games came in the third frame, when he lined a shot to deep center field. Wynn snagged it on the run, and Willie went hitless for only the second time this season.

The bright star in the Giant lineup was rookie Jesus Alou, who has not only earned his spurs with the Giants but should have a saddle and bridle tossed in. He had three hits to increase his batting average to .341, eighth highest in the National League.

The defeat trimmed San Francisco's lead to just a half-game over the Philadelphia Phils — and the Giants can't expect a patsy in the New York team.

Pitching Is Mets' Big Weakness; Keeps Them In League Basement

CONNOLLY

All one can say about the New York Mets, in San Francisco tonight and over the weekend for a five-game joust with the Giants, is they are just about where they belong in the National League standing. They could finish ninth but I doubt it. Houston has better pitching and a couple of kids who have a good chance.

The Mets have made some changes, notably by acquiring Roy McMillan at shortstop. They have some power, but very little pitching.

The infield displayed by Casey Stengel isn't the worst. Ol' Case has been playing Tim Harkness, Ron Hunt, McMillan and Amado Samuel. Hunt probably is the best ball player on the club. He's something of a hitter and, teamed with McMillan, helps tighten the defense. McMillan has a lot of years going for him. In his prime he was tops.

Outfield for the Mets still is pretty thin. George Altman and Frank Thomas have a long ball potential and a youngster named Rod Kanehl is the third picket man. The Mets like Kanehl and rate him highly. So far he hasn't done too much.

Chris Cannizzaro and Jess Gonder are a pair of poor catchers, though Gonder can hit a bit.

No matter what way you size up the visitors they lack the most important asset of any club — pitching. Carlton Willey's injury hurt them and indications are he may be back soon. On the field the Met pitching looks better than on the roster. Al Jackson is very good. He won 13 games last year, which is remarkable for the team he has behind him. Jack Fisher, who in 1963 was the Giants, Tracy Stallard, Galen Cisco, who is fair at times, Larry Bearnarth and a guy named Bauta are the Mets' staff. The last two are relievers.

WITHOUT ATTEMPTING to put the hex on the Mets, or the Giants, it is not bragging too much to predict that S.F. should walk over them in the next five games. I say this is view of the fact that last year the Giants won 12 out of 18, and had a heck of a time doing it.

WITH THE Houston series out of the way it would behoove the Giants to start playing a little heads-up baseball, something they haven't been doing all season. Lucky for them Willie Mays and a couple of pitchers — Juan Marichel and Bob Shaw — were flying high. Those three saved the entire team.

Also a "big lift" was given the club when Matty Alou started coming into his own. It was a 10 to 1 shot that Matty was headed for parts unknown. But he got a break when Duke Snider was put in to play the outfield. The Duke is so slow, and so badly in needing of spring training, he looked slower than usual. It forced Manager Alvin Dark to bench the Duke and keep him for what he was hired to do — pinch hit. And that gave Alou a chance and he cashed in on it beautifully. The success of Matty worked wonders also for Jesus Alou who likewise began finding himself. Together they are both now in high gear and there is no way of telling when they might be stopped.

THE FLOP of Willie McCovey and the apparent slow start of Jim Hart with the bat add a lot of problems to Manager Dark's growing list. One of those concerns the need for a steady southpaw pitcher. The Giants need one, even if Hendley and O'Dell do pitch better than they have to date.

The only player on the Giants who could bring a good southpaw, like Al Jackson of the Mets to the Giants, would be a player of the caliber of McCovey. And the Giants are not about to cut him loose. But we happen to know Chub Feeney and "Uncle Horace" are using every angle to set up a deal for a lefthanded pitcher. It could come any day and don't be surprised at who might be taken to accomplish the trick. It could be almost anybody except Mays, Shaw or Marichal.

All-Clubs Regatta Tomorrow

By ALFRED MATSON

Two weeks ago the Vallejo Race set an all time high in attendance records, with 465 yachts going to the post.

That record may be short lived as, from the high degree of interest indicated by the racing gentry in the All-Clubs Regatta this weekend, even greater participation can be expected.

The All-Clubs has been an annual event since 1934 and is one of the glamor race meets of the year. The trophies are handsome, the award party highly impressive and there is a running commentary, interspersed with canned music, emanating from the loud speaker system of the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco, the point of starts and finishes—all for the edification of the shore side spectators.

The big parade will be divided into two sections: All of the classes, and there are 26 of them, will race tomorrow with the International One Design class getting the first gun at 10:50 a.m., the remaining classes following at 5 minute intervals. Then on Sunday, the big blue water yachts in Cruising Club "A" will headline the second half of the two-day extravaganza, starting at 12 noon. And the other sections of Cruising Club, plus the handicap division, will follow at the usual five minute intervals.

THE COURSES

The courses chosen for both days are, for the larger boats, somewhat of an innovation, being of a windward-leeward nature only. The first mark, Crissy Field buoy, followed by the run down to buoy No. 7, off Treasure Island, again the beat to Crissy, the run to No. 7 and finishing on the wind, back at the starting line at the St. Francis Y.C. That course will give the viewers, with binoculars, that is, the complete picture of the yachts racing along the designated waterway.

There will be a Small Boat Racing Assn. on Sunday, as well. The Mercury, 110 and Zephyr classes that make up Division 4 will furnish the action in a program sponsored by the Encinal Y.C. with the first warning gun at 11 a.m.

TRACK 'N' FIELD

Marin Preps Face North Coast Test

The top prep track and field stars from Marin County will be out to show their prowress tomorrow in Petaluma in the North Coast Section Division III meet.

Competing in that meet will be the first five place winners in each of the varsity and Class B events of last Saturday's county-wide meet at the San Rafael High School oval.

Tomorrow's events will start at 9:30 a.m. and run throughout the day.

Supplying the biggest punch from Marin will be the cindermen from Redwood High School. Redwood's varsity team easily won the team title in the dual meet season and then just as easily won the Marin Athletic League county meet last Saturday. In the Class B division of the county meet, San Rafael and Redwood tied for the team title.

Tom Strathairn, Redwood's fine hurdler, has a good chance to win some points in tomorrow's meet. He won both hurdle races—the 120 highs and the 180 lows—in the county meet and anchored the relay team to a league record win of 1:30.6 in the half-mile relay.

TOP SPRINTERS

Three 9.9 sprinters from Marin will be entered in the 100-yard dash, all co-holders of the league mark. They are Bob Piro from Redwood, Dean Lazzarini from Drake and Bob Olson of San Rafael. Another flash, Ellis Williams of Tam, will be among the Marin delegation of sprinters. Williams boomed to a dazzling 9.8 century in the first Tam meet of the season this year but was hampered the rest of the season with a pulled leg muscle.

Leading the field event boys will be three fine pole vaulters . . . Doug Sayer of Terra Linda, and Collin Janda and Bill Dimpfl, both of Redwood. The three tied for a new league record last Saturday, clearing 12 feet even. Sayer was determined the winner on fewer misses.

But off of top marks, Dimpfl and Janda are among the top vaulters in Northern California, both going over 13 feet with fiberglass poles.

S.F. Golfer Slips In Western Event

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Dick Hopwood took a one-stroke lead into today's grueling 36-hole round in the Western Amateur golf tournament.

Hopwood, a former professional from Phoenix, fired a five-under-par 67 in yesterday's second round to jump into the lead with a 137.

The remaining 59 golfers battled under a broiling sun today for 16 spots in match competition opening Saturday.

University of Houston golfer Bob Bourne of Oberlin, Ohio, carded the best score yesterday, a six-under 66 which left him just one stroke behind Hopwood at 138.

First round leader Steve Opperman of San Francisco slipped to a tie for third with a par 72 and a 36-hole total of 140.

As Big Frank Goes, So Go The Dodgers

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

Six-foot-seven Frank Howard, a mountain of a man, has a way of making all those Dodger problems look like molehills.

It has been said that every time the 255-pound Howard moves, the earth around him trembles, but more important is the fact that every time he does, he seems to move the Dodgers, too.

The big outfielder moved them up a notch yesterday and although it was only into eighth place, it's still higher than ninth and certainly a step in the right direction.

He picked on one of the National League's best, lefty Dick Ellsworth, yesterday for a two-run homer in the 10th inning that beat the Cubs, 6-4, then came back in the nightcap with a ninth inning bases-loaded single off rookie Wayne Schurr that nailed down a 5-0 win for Don Drysdale.

Relief ace Ron Perranoski blanked the Cubs on two hits over the last four innings of the opener to score his second victory after Chicago had kayoed starter Sandy Koufax on four runs and six hits in four innings.

Drysdale checked the Cubs on four hits for his fifth victory against one loss. He struck out eight and walked five while the Dodgers chased Fred Norman in the second inning even though he didn't give up a hit.

Five walks, four stolen bases, an error and a sacrifice fly produced three runs for Los Angeles and added up to Norman's fourth straight setback without a victory.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Phillies climbed within a half game of first place with a 3-2 triumph over the Cardinals, the Houston Colts nipped the San Francisco Giants, 4-3, and snapped Willie Mays' hitting streak at 20 games, and the Mets belted the Braves, 12-4.

Richie Allen's seventh inning homer snapped a 2-2 tie and gave the Phillies their first victory in five games with the Cardinals. Allen's seventh homer came off loser Ernie Broglio (2-2) and brought Jim Running his fourth civtory although the former Detroit right-hander received a big assist from Ed Roebuck.

Hardtops To Go Tomorrow Night

Jack Dempsey of San Rafael will again be trying to hit the winner's circle tomorrow night when the second week of hardtop racing is held at the Petaluma Fairgrounds.

Demsey, after winning three straight main events at Antioch, came to Petaluma last week and won his heat race, but spun out in the main event and didn't finish.

Time trials start at 7 p.m. and the trophy dash initiates the racing at 8 o'clock.

TROPHIES OF A HUNT IN AFRICA

Marinite Scores Big On Safari

By RICHARD LYTTLE

A Marin hunter shot the biggest Cape Buffalo killed so far this year.

He and his wife had to go all the way to Tanganyika, Africa, to do it, but judging from their pride in the buffalo and other trophies, it was worth it.

"We want to go back soon," Mrs. Jack L. Robinson said. Her husband nodded in agreement.

The Robinsons live in a large house trailer at 2078 Redwood Highway, near the Greenbrae interchange. He retired officially Jan. 1, after 13 years operating Marin Trailer Sales.

But on Dec. 19 the Robinsons were already off, flying around the world. They went across the Pacific to Japan, Hong Kong, the Philippines, Siam, India and on to Africa. They landed in Nairobi, were outfitted and left on safari, Jan. 7.

With a two-ton truck, a Land Rover, 12 Africans and a white hunter, the Robinsons headed south to hunt near Lake Eyasi. The white hunter, St. John Lawrence, was born in East Africa and had hunted all his life.

"I really learned about guns and hunting," Robinson confessed. Robinson and his wife have hunted and fished for many years. They are members of the Hamilton Rod and Gun Club and the Marin Rod and Gun Club.

The safari was put on by White Hunters, Ltd. It is done in style. The Robinsons and the hunter each had a personal servant. Clothes were washed and pressed for them each day. They had a hot bath each day. There was even ice for the evening cocktail.

They shot Thompson gazelle, Grant gazelle, wildebeest, hartebeest and impala. Robinson got one leopard and one cape buffalo.

They were shooting for three things, meat for the party, trophies and meat for leopard traps.

The natives dried the heavier meat for use as "bill tongue," which is kind of a jerky, Robinson explained.

They would check the leopard bait every afternoon. If meat had been eaten in one spot, one of them would wait there in a blind until nightfall. That was how Robinson got his leopard.

The cape buffalo he shot has a hefty pair of horns which measure 42 inches from tip to tip. The biggest ever shot had a span of 56 inches from horn tip to horn tip.

The Robinsons brought home several trophies. He hopes to mount them himself.

After 21 days on safari, the Robinsons returned to Nairobi and flew north for five days of Nile perch fishing in Lake Rudolf. Their biggest perch was a 63-pounder. They get up to 200 pounds.

After Africa, the Robinsons took a quick tour of Southern Europe and arrived home in March.

Hunting and fishing trips are the big interest for the Robinsons. After their return from Africa, they went to La Paz, Mexico, and each caught a marlin. Both fish each weighed 156 pounds. Next trip will probably be to the World's Fair in New York and then south to Florida for some more marlin fishing.

This is the second time Robinson has retired. The first was when he was only 40. "That was too young," he said, "and we ran out of money. Now we've got it made."

TROPHIES OF HUNT—Jack and Ida Robinson show some of the many heads they brought home from their 21-day safari in East Africa. That is the skull and horns of a cape buffalo on Robinson's knees. It is the largest trophy. Mrs. Robinson holds the skull of a dik dik, the smallest hoofed animal they shot.

He now has one win and one loss on the young season, and has struck out 6 and walked 7. In his 10 innings on the mound, he has compiled a sparkling 1.80 earned run mark.

Ron Cole of Mill Valley, hurler for Modesto of the California League, also appeared in two games and came out of it with one win, evening his record at 1-1.

In 14 innings pitched this year, Cole has struck out 14, and has also allowed 14 hits.

DALE, Ind. (AP)—Pitcher Don Kirkland of Chrisney High School struck out 22 batters in a seven-inning baseball game with Oakland City yesterday in pitching a 10-0 no-hitter.

He needed the extra strikout in the seventh inning because his catcher let a third strike get away and the batter made it to first. Kirkland faced 23 men, walking one. Nobody hit a ball fair against him.

MARIN'S OLDEST

Mill Valley Opens Schedule Sunday

The Mill Valley Merchants baseball team, now the oldest semi-pro team in Marin County, will open its 1964 season Sunday.

The Tiburon Pelicans semi-pro team had been the oldest team in Marin, but more than half a century of tradition died with the announcement from manager Ed Vigno that there would be no team this year.

Reason for the folding of the Tiburon team, which had fielded a squad every year for the past 52 years, was money. With no sponsors, the team had relied on "passing the hat" at its Sunday games at Judge Field in Tiburon. Other money came from a concession stand which sold hot dogs, beer and soft drinks.

But the crowds had dwindled during the past few years. It wasn't too long ago that the team collected between $100 and $150 on a Sunday afternoon. But the amount has been steadily shrinking. Last season the Pelicans were getting only $10 or $12 per game, not even enough to supply needed bats and balls, let alone uniforms.

Mill Valley, near neighbor to the Tiburon team, has had a team for almost 50 years. Manager for the fifth year in a row is Bob Selna. The opening game for the Merchants Sunday will be against the Pacifica Lions. The game at Project 17 in Mill Valley will start at 1:30 p.m.

Among the stars on the Mill Valley team this year will be pitchers Keith Frazer and Dave Perlis; catcher Jeffrey Munyon; right fielder Tommy Austin, most valuable player award winner for the Merchants last year; third baseman Sandy Slack; first baseman Dave Gregg; centerfielder Doug Keenan, all-conference player at University of Minnesota for four years, and Stan Woodward, veteran second baseman.

Frazer is slated to get the opening game nod Sunday on the mound.

Oklahoma Tourney Slashed By Storm

OKLAHOMA CITY (AP) — Another attempt to play the first round of the $40,000 Oklahoma City Open Golf Tournament was scheduled today, but thunderstorms which wiped out play late yesterday again were forecast for the area.

Play was halted yesterday when lightning flashed threateningly over the 7,042-yard Quail Creek Country Club course.

Tam Baseball Coach Bell Is Promoted

Ray Bell, for 12 years head baseball coach at Tamalpais High School, has been promoted to vice principal at Tam and will step down from the active coaching ranks, it was announced today.

Bell's appointment to vice principal is effective July 1. He will be replaced by Al Ahlsten, now the frosh football and Class B basketball coach at Tam.

The 37-year-old Bell has been at Tam for 13 years. He coached junior varsity baseball his first year at Tam before moving up to the varsity job. He also coached junior varsity football for eight years.

GOOD RECORD

During his tenure at the baseball helm for the Indians, Bell coached his boys to a Marin Athletic League championship title in 1961, and previously had tied for the championship in the old North Bay League. He had been very successful in the county baseball tournaments, winning the crown 7 out of 11 times entered.

Bell had replaced Ed Nordstrom, who retired.

Ahlsten came to Tamalpais High five years ago from Norwalk High School in southern California where he was the head football coach.

A blocked field goal sometimes has disastrous effects. Against Illinois, Harold Wells of Purdue recovered such a blocked kick and went 62 yards for a touchdown.

Hill Rise Early Preakness Choice

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI)—Hill Rise, beaten favorite in the Kentucky Derby two weeks ago, was set today to avenge that defeat in the first of the Triple Crown classics in tomorrow's 88th running of the Preakness Stakes but Derby winner Northern Dancer was primed to repulse him again.

"I really believe Hill Rise is better now than he was in Kentucky," said Bill Finnegan who trains the colt for the El Peco Ranch of George A. Pope Jr. "Not that there was anything wrong with him at Churchill Downs but he seems to have blossomed out here."

Once again Hill Rise has been made early favorite at 7 to 5 in the field of six entered for the Preakness with Northern Dancer the strong second choice at 8 to 5.

Four other sharply trained thoroughbreds — The Scoundrel, Roman Brother, Quadrangle and Big Pete — will oppose the fearsome twosome in the 1-3/16 mile race before a crowded house of 30,000 and a national television audience.

Post time is 2:45 p.m. PDT with television and radio, CBS, scheduled for 2:30-3 p.m.

Girl From India To See Country

Spent Year Studying At Tam High

By ALAN CUNNINGHAM

Seniors who graduate from Tamalpais High School next month will go many direciions. But there is little doubt the one who will travel farthest will be a tiny, charming 18-year-old girl from India named Rama Misra.

It will not be long until she again sees her family in the City of Cuttack, in the State of Orissa in central India. She is looking forward to that. But she is excited about the fact that, instead of flying across the continent as she did last fall, she and two busloads of other exchange students from many lands will take a three-week tour of our broad country. She knows she will see much more than she previously glimpsed in the five-hour stop-off in New York before flying to San Francisco.

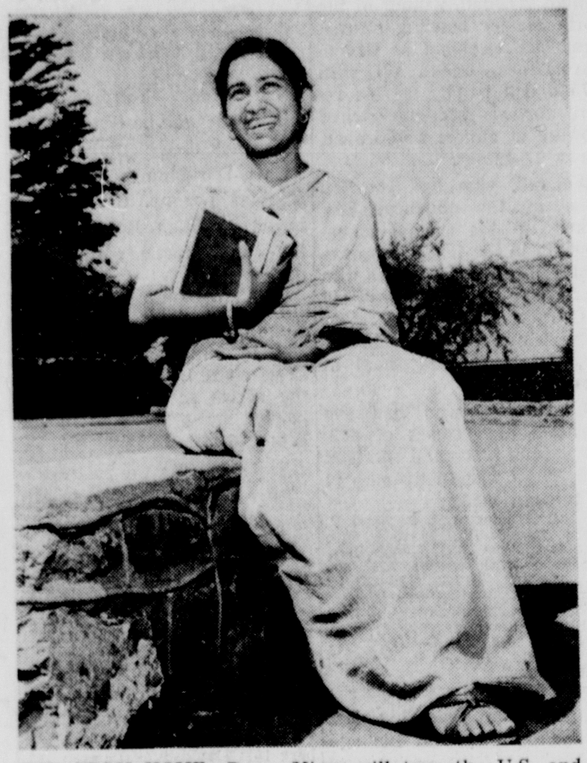
She'll leave this country with many mementoes, including a new-found interest in politics.

But there will also be bonds of friendship with a host of laughing, lively American young people, and most of all with the girl who has been her "sister" for eight months, Michel Royston of 18 LaVerne Avenue, Mill Valley.

She has lived in Michel's home, calling Mr. and Mrs. Robert N. Royston "mommy" and "daddy" after they told her she could call them what she liked.

"At home, young people do not call their elders by their first names. I felt most comfortable calling them this. And my own mommy and daddy are at home in India, so it seemed right," said Rama.

At Tamalpais High, she has studied English, history, psychology and government. At her home-away-from-home, the Roystons have rounded out her education by taking her skiing at Squaw Valley ("I liked it very much, but it is not very much fun when you fall down"), by exposing her to some British imports called the Beatles ("I like the way they sound, but I don't like the way they look"), and by having a television set in their home (many shows are very good, but "the movies go on forever because of the commercials").



FAR FROM HOME—Rama Misra will tour the U.S. and meet President Lyndon B. Johnson on her way home to India from a year as an exchange student at Tamalpais High School. She has worn this, her native dress, most days at the school, but tried on American slacks when she went on skiing trips and other outings. (Independent-Journal photo)

Another part of the learning process, both for Rama and her hosts, has come at the dinner table.

They, of course, introduced her to an American diet, although her religious background prevented her from eating beef. But on Friday nights, she cooks for them, and the family has taken a great liking to Indian foods, for which she is able to find most of the ingredients here.

She may have a hard time explaining to some of her American classmates that her year in a Marin County high school will be followed by her junior year in college, but that is the case. She has already put in two years at Ravenshaw College in her home city. Yet when the chance came to spend a year in this country, she didn't mind the fact the program had no provision for placing her in a college or university.

Being the same age as Tamalpais seniors, she fitted in. And as far as the curriculum goes, her studies have been "all new things" and Rama insists she learned a lot.

As proof, she offers the fact that these months in the United States have inspired an interest in politics and government which she'd never had before, so much so that she now plans to major in political science and become a college teacher.

This will call for another four years of schooling, she adds, because she will need a "first class" degree, which an American would call a master's.

"I know probably more about American government than Indian government," she explains.

The fear which first accompanied such a long trip has gone now, and even the homesickness is giving away to the realization of how much she is going to leave behind when she goes home.

Still, she says, she would never consider leaving India to make this country her home. And, like many another traveler, she believes it will be good to go home.

In the future, she may marry, and if she does, the match will be arranged by her family.

She readily accepts this fact, for that is the way it is done in her culture, and she has tried hard to make Americans understand why, to her, this "doesn't seem wrong."

This fall, when the cross-country bus ride and 'round-the-world plane trip are behind her, Rama Misra undoubtedly will be one of the most informed young ladies in her land on the subject of the national elections taking place in far-off America.

If President Lyndon B. Johnson wins that election, it will have special meaning, for among the last acts of her group before they leave this country in June will be to meet the American president in Washington.

Elections Set At Tam High

Petitions are being circulated at Tamalpais High School for student backing for candidates for student body and other offices.

Elections will be split this year. On May 25 a president, vice president, secretary, treasurer and rally commissioners will be elected. On June 1 song and yell leaders will be elected.

Student Moira O'Cnnor said the reason is that elections take two hours if combined.

Elections are for the fall semester.

Prison Aide To Talk

The program will be staged with cooperation of Mrs. Ann Anderson, president of the Central Marin League of Women Voters.

NOW A DIRECTOR

Long Curls, Memory Began Drama Career

By PATRICIA ZINN

In a walk-on role "like Hitchcock" when the first performance of the 47th annual production of the Mountain Play "Flamenca" unfolds in all its Spanish pageantry on Sunday will be assistant director-producer Mrs. Nelson Shreve of Corte Madera.

Lucille Shreve, who will this year assume the role of a gypsy, is marking her ninth year with the Mountain Play when the production is performed on Sunday and May 24 at the Mountain Theatre on Mt. Tamalpais.

Participation in theatrical productions has always been a natural for the energic brown-eyed brunette who got the leading roles in grade school because "Mother was good at making costumes and I had long brown curls and a good memory."

THE ACTION of "Flamenca," written by director Dan Totheroh of Mill Valley, takes place on the village green of a small town in the Pyrenees Mountains of Spain and has as its theme the age-old conflict between love and duty. A tale of star-crossed lovers is depicted against a background of gypsy music and dancing and colorful costumes of ancient Spain.

IN DISCUSSING the forthcoming pageant fantasy, Lucille Shreve's eyes flash like those of a gypsy when she speaks about the costumes, dancing and special performers this year, a Shetland pony, two horses and a dog.

AS ASSISTANT director, her work begins with the selection of the play in the fall. Then follows the readying of the scripts and announcements to actors and little theater groups. After tryouts and the selection of a cast come the rehearsals.

As an aside Lucille Shreve also plays the roles of wife to an advertising copy director, part-time secretary-bookkeeper and mistress to two cocker spaniels and two Siamese cats.

Along with these pursuits, the versatile Marinite is active in the Juvenile Hall Auxiliary, Ross Valley Players and Merry Wives of the Marin Shakespeare Festival.

SHE ALSO swings a mean golf club.

While residing in Belvedere, Lucille teamed up with Totheroh to form the Cove Players. Her most recent effort in play direction was the Ross Valley Players performance "The Big Knife."

Lucille Shreve hopes someday to see the mountain play presented throughout the summer in Marin.

At present, it's the mountain play and then a trip to Europe. In Scotland Mrs. Nelson Shreve will play the part of a houseguest at the home of author Jessica Mitford ("The American Way of Death") off the coast of Scotland.

LOOKING TO Mt. Tamalpais from the deck of her home in Corte Madera is Mrs. Nelson Shreve, assistant-director for the Mountain Play "Flamenca" to be performed on Sunday and May 24. The pageant fantasy, written by director Don Totheroh of Mill Valley, has a cast of 125 players. (Independent-Journal photo)

Specialist Says Examinations Are Integral Part Education System

By DAVID NYDICK
UPI Education Specialist

Examinations are an important part of the education process. Regardless of arguments for or against the merits of exams, students must take and should perform well on them.

Since exams are used as a measure of achievement and success, the realistic student should make every effort to improve his scores. This involves more than just studying and knowing the material being tested. There are many good students who constantly score low on tests.

One cause of low test scores is related to emotional or physical factors. The student who is afraid of an exam becomes tense and sometimes panicky. At the exam he becomes confused, forgets information, and may even develop physical symptoms such as stomach pains, nausea, headaches, etc. The result is a poor score.

WHAT CAN BE DONE to prevent such extensive upset? The problem results from pressure to attain high grades. This pressure may be exerted by parents or teachers who overemphasize perfection. If this is the case, the cure is obvious. The pressure may also be exerted by the student himself. In this situation, professional guidance is helpful.

Parents can help, in either case, by using their influence to provide a relaxed atmosphere at home. Every opportunity should be used to show the child that he is loved and accepted as an individual regardless of school success. This doesn't mean encouraging laziness or poor study habits. It does mean less stress upon grades and more stress upon the importance of non-school activities. Contrary to common belief praise for good work can be a factor in producing pressure.

ANOTHER MAJOR cause of low test scores is inefficient study methods. Studying should be well organized. Careful planning saves time and produces superior results. A study schedule should be written down, making sure that sufficient time is available for each subject. Since estimates may be inaccurate, extra time should be included. A plan needs some free time for relaxation and entertainment. This will depend upon the time period covered by the schedule.

The actual studying should begin with a clarification of which areas will be covered on the exam. This may be done by going over a course outline if provided or reviewing the table of contents in the class textbook.

THE NEXT STEP is to review the textbook. This can be accomplished by reading the last part of each section or chapter which is usually devoted to a summary. When something unfamiliar is found, the student can then go back and clarify the items which appear to be ideal for test questions.

Perhaps the most important aspect of studying is a review of notes taken during class lectures. Teachers will tend to discuss those points which they feel are most important. It follows that these will more likely appear on an exam. However, don't neglect the text and other required reading since most teachers will include some reference to these other materials.

TESTS ARE constantly used in education. It is important to give consideration to achieving better scores.

Demonstration Program For Counseling

By BONNIE ANGELO
Advance News Service

WASHINGTON—Two suburban housewives held an Ad Hoc conference over their supermarket shopping carts one day — and the fruits of their session are about to become a federal program.

Their brainstorm would help solve two problems at the same time. There is an acute shortage of skilled counselors to work with young people who need guidance. And there is a large number of college-trained housewives who are eager, as their children grow up, to get back into the professional world.

THE PROGRAM which was born between the rutabagas and the packaged biscuits would draw on the one to help the other. The plans call for internships, combining supervised work at youth employment agencies with intensive college classwork for three months.

The first demonstration project is being planned to begin September in Washington — if it wins final approval of the office of Manpower, Automation and Training, which must pay the bill, estimated at $40,000.

Both Jeanne Barnett and Jocelyn Gutchess are college-trained women who found that as their own youngsters reached a somewhat independent age, homemaking became a part-time job. Both returned part-time to social service for which they were trained. Mrs. Barnett, a volunteer leader in the Urban Service Corps in the District of Columbia, worked as a counseling aide in the elementary schools of Washington's poorer areas; Mrs. Gutchess joined the Labor Department's youth employment office.

BOTH HAD ALSO put in a year after college as internes in government offices, sponsored by the National Institute of Public Affairs. As they talked, they recalled how that early experience had made them always interested and active in public affairs.

Why they reasoned, wouldn't a similar program bring mature trained women back as counselors? They weren't thinking of the bridge-playing set; they were interested in channeling the talents which pour into services for upper middle class communities into areas where the need is desperate and resources nil.

They did not stop with talking about it. They followed through with action, sounding out experts—slum school principals, juvenile delinquency workers, the U.S. Employment Service, and others. Their plan was reviewed by poverty program director Sargent Shriver, who commended it.

BUT APPROVAL never puts a show on the road, so they had to start looking for money to translate an idea into action. They went no further than Mrs. Gutchess' boss, Samuel V. Merrick, assistant manpower administrator for youth, who saw merit in it and put the two to work on shaping it into a plan of action.

Their plan calls for recruitment of 30 mature individuals with college degrees in the field of behavioral sciences. Alumnae associations are expected to supply names and addresses.

AFTER THE TRAINEES are screened and selected by committee from Howard University here, they will go into a three-month, 30-hour-week program. Half of their time will be spent in seminars at the university's center for youth and community studies.

In the other half of the course, the trainees will work as paid interns in youth employment centers, supervised by master counselors. Several Washington agencies have already asked for interns.

After three months of training, the interns would be ready to move out as professional counselors, working toward certification if they choose.

THE DEMONSTRATION program will lead to a curriculum, training plan and overall counselor program that can be used by other communities throughout the country, further alleviating the dual problem of shortage and surplus.

Variety Meats

The term "variety meats" designates such edible portions of meat animals as liver, heart, tongue, sweetbreads, kidney, brains and tripe. Generally variety meats are cooked to the well-done stage, with the possible exception of veal or calves' liver.

Crowding, More Women Are Predictions

EDITOR'S NOTE: Our population is in a state of change and growth. Just how are women affected by this challenge of the '60s and the '70s to come? Here is what a new report on the American economic system has to say.

By JOY MILLER

NEW YORK (AP) — The blow fell at midcentury.

America's population shifted in 1950 so that, for the first time, women outnumbered men: 1,000 to 993.

In 1960, masculine ranks had thinned to 978.

By 1970, says a new economic study, there will be still fewer — 972 men for every 1,000 ladies.

But the source of this projection, a Twentieth Century Fund survey called "USA and Its Economic Future" published May 4, contributes this consoling fact:

DURING THE MARRYING age — up to 25 — young men outnumber girls. But since women live longer it's inevitable they'll end up being more numerous. By the time they've reached 65 the feminine kind outpoint men 10 to 8.

The shift to numerical female superiority isn't the only thing happening to the population. It's also growing rapidly.

YOU MAY THINK the country is already pretty crowded. Stick around. By 1975 the population will reach 235 million, the report surmises. That's 45 million more people than we've got now.

The new survey, written by Arnold B. Barach, points out:

More than half of that 235 million will be under 26 years of age. You can see what that means in the way of wedding bells. For 1975 alone, the report anticipates more than 2 million marriages.

THAT SAME momentous year, 5 million birth announcements are expected to be dropped in the mail. It will be an even more awesome baby boom than that of the postwar period which continued through the 50s and produced close to 3 million a year.

About a million new families set up housekeeping each year in the '50s. There were 55 million households in the country in 1962, if you include single people living alone. By 1975 the number may total 68 million.

THE SURVEY attributes the rapid rise in the number of new households to early marriage and a prosperous economy. Somehow, though, one out of four marriages was ending in divorce by 1960.

In 1940, when couples were in less hurry to make the trip down the aisle, the divorce figure was one out of six.

But came World War II and young lovers decided to wait no longer. The marriage rate reached a new high by '42 — 115 marriages per 1,000 women aged 17 to 29. After the war it jumped again, then slowed somewhat. But the average was about 1½ million nuptial ceremonies a year.

HALF OF THE POSTWAR brides were 20 or younger. That's nearly two years younger than girls married in 1890. Half of the grooms were under 23—3½ years younger than their granddads were when they tied the knot.

At the other end of the age spectrum, the over-65s reached an all-time high of 16 million in 1960. That's 1 out of every 11 Americans.

But in 1975 the sunset set will enjoy a boom too. Then more than 22 million will be over 65.

Marin MAGAZINE

Bright reading for the whole week

Featured this Saturday:

Officially, it's the Sidney B. Cushing Memorial Theater. But it is commonly called the Mountain Theater. And it is the picturesque site on the slopes of Mount Tamalpais of the annual Mountain Play. On the eve of the 1964 production, your Independent-Journal Marin Magazine tomorrow will tell you how this unusual outdoor theater came into being.

Bernard Weller is no cowboy. But he frequently finds himself involved in "cattle roundups." He's a state humane officer who is sometimes called upon to mount Geronimo, the Humane Society's horse, and round up stray cattle that are creating a traffic hazard. You'll accompany Weller — and Geronimo—on such an assignment in tomorrow's magazine.

Also in tomorrow's I-J weekend supplement: An illustrated feature on the highly successful music program of the San Rafael City Schools; a story about Philip Pease, school librarian and teacher and son of the creator of the famed Tod Moran of mystery and adventure fiction for boys; plus the always popular book reviews, gardening pages, etc.

Marin's own magazine . . . picturing and reporting life in Marin today . . . personalities, recreation, coming events, book reviews, gardening, music, home improvement, weekly TV log. A week of good reading. Look for it, Saturdays.

Today is Friday, May 15, the 136th day of 1964 with 230 to follow.

The Moon is approaching its first quarter. The morn-star is Saturn. The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1765, the British Parliament enacted a statute making mandatory for American colonists to supply housing and supplies for British troops.

In 1930, the first stewardess was employed on a United Air Line flight from San Francisco to Cheyenne, Wyo.

In 1942, wartime gasoline rationing started in 17 eastern states.

In 1963, Maj. L. Gordon Cooper made the longest space flight for an American . . . 22 orbits in a Mercury capsule called Faith VII.

A thought for the day — American patriot Patrick Henry said, "I have but one lamp by which my feet are guided, and that is the lamp of experience. I know of no way of judging the future but by the past."

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Good Odds Fine At Bridge —But A Sure Thing Better

It's quite reasonable to bid a slam that depends on a finesse, and better than reasonable if you need only one out of two finesses.

Still, don't settle for this 3 to 1 shot if you can get even better odds.

Opening lead — ◇ K

Declarer won the first trick in dummy with the ace of diamonds and drew two rounds of trumps. Then he led a low club toward dummy, losing the queen to East's king.

CLUB KING

This was a disappointment, since the slam would be home if West held the king of clubs. South still had the chance of another club finesse, but his ten lost to West's jack. Down one.

As South played the hand, the odds were 3 to 1 in his favor, but he overlooked a better chance. The correct play is to try to set up one of dummy's diamonds.

If this fails to work, South can fall back on the clubs and try for his 3 to 1 chance.

RUFF IMMEDIATELY

After winning the first trick wtih the ace of diamonds, South should immediately ruff a diamond with a high trump. He then leads the seven of spades to dummy's jack.

When the ten of spades falls on this trick South is home. He ruffs another diamond with a high trump and leads the three of trumps to dummy's six. This permits him to ruff a third low diamond.

Declarer leads a heart to dummy's ace and ruffs a fourth low diamond. This clears the last diamond out of West's hand.

LAST TRUMP

South ruffs his queen of hearts with dummy's last trump and cashes dummy's jack of diamonds to discard a club.

When the diamonds broke 5-1, South needed a good trump break. If the 10 of spades failed to drop, South could abandon the diamonds, draw a second trump and play for the clubs.

It cost nothing to try first for the diamonds.

QUESTION

Partner opens with one no-trump (16 to 18 points), and the next player passes.

♦ Q J 10 9 5 3
♣ 8 4 3 2

What do you say?

Answer: Bid two diamonds.

Your hand should be worth about four or five tricks at diamonds, but may be worth only one trick at notrump.

FOOT LOOSE . . .

isn't it about time you moved up to a really luxurious 2-bedroom apartment that's "typically Marin"? . . . enjoy the pleasant combination of warm sunny Marin weather and the cool water front breezes practically at your patio . . . enjoy private spaciousness, weather insulation and sound conditioning throughout your apartment . . . join in the pleasures of your own putting green, swimming pool, sauna bath and beautifully landscaped (and maintained) gardens . . . now you can content yourself with the convenience of elevators, separate laundry rooms on each floor, fully equipped kitchens, wall-to-wall carpeting and full draperies.

FANCY FREE . . .

if you choose, we'll move you FREE by Republic Van & Storage . . . or perhaps — absolutely free — the best set of Wilson golf clubs that money can buy (to give that putting green a workout), or a FREE portable GE TV set! We want you to be happy getting here . . . and staying here . . . whether you lease or buy, there's more square feet of quality and luxury for the same dollar spent here, than anywhere else in Marin. . .

Class Conducts High Level Study

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (AP) — Mohonasen Junior High School pupils are playing with balloons, with the teachers' consent. They're studying atmospheric wind conditions.

The youngsters already have released a score of balloons. One type expands to about 42 inches in diameter and is designed to burst at 45,000 ft.; another expands to 30 inches and will burst at 35,000 ft., and a third expands to 200 inches and bursts at 80,000-100,000 ft.

Attached to the balloons, which are launched from a hill behind the school, is a card asking the time, date and location the card was found and the finder's name. One card was found at Cranston, R.I., 190 miles away, 3 hours and 45 minutes after launching.

Lockjaw Fight Being Urged Around U.S.

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI) — What a pity it is that some people are going to die this spring and summer of an entirely preventabe disease. Pity is in the minds of public health scientists as they urge physicians to bestir themselves and immunize everyone they can against lockjaw.

Their goal which now is hardly more than a hope is immunization for every man, woman and child. When it is reached it will be finis for the sneaky disease which can fatally establish itself in people before its presence is suspected.

Even a minor wound is enough. Spring and summer are the seasons when people are acquiring more than the usual number of them. They are gardening, operating outdoor machines, messing around with amateur carpentry, and children are playing with dirty and pointed things.

Lockjaw is caused by a poison of the common dirt bacteria, clostridium tetani. For that reason it is called tetanus. They reproduce themselves and put out their poison where there is no oxygen. Deep under the human skin is an ideal place for that. They can get there on anything which makes a penetrating wound.

People who have been immunized with injections of detoxified poison are safe, and for life if they get an occasional "booster" shot. They have antibodies to neutralize the poison. And people who get to a doctor within a few hours after being wounded are reasonably safe.

Their wounds can be properly cleaned. They can be treated with antibiotics and given a course of injections of anti toxin produced in the bodies of horses or cattle. These methods are not always effective preventers of the disease, however, and there is a risk of massive allergic reactions which could be as life-threatening as the disease.

But the people who worry public health scientists the most are those who never get to a doctor with their minor wounds until they have the locked-jaw symptoms of tetanus. They're in for a rough time. The disease is notorious for its pain and the mortality rate is above 20 per cent.

Both Dr. Georffrey Edsall, of the Massachusetts Public Health Department at Harvard, and Dr. Edward S. Stafford of the Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, are urging all physicians to bear down heavily on bringing about "universal immunization" and thus wiping out the disease.

The armed services have been immunizing all their members since the 1930s. Baby doctors now immunize their infant charges as a matter of routine and this has been a growing practice for some 20 years. But it was estimated that three-fourths of the American population possesses no immunity whatever to tetanus.

"The effectiveness of active immunization in preventing tetanus has been so well established, there appears to be little excuse for not making tetanus immunization a routine part of all medical and public health care," said Dr. Edsall.

"The medical profession, charged with the responsibility for the health of our people, must undertake a vigorous campaign to accomplish the active immunization against tetanus of all citizens," said Dr. Stafford.

Pens Outpacing Pills In Druggists' Trade

FORT MADISON, Ia. (UPI) — Where do most Americans go to buy a pen? To a stationery, or book store? No, they go to drug stores, which soid more fountain pens and ballpoint pens last year than did any other type of retail outlet, according to market researchers at W. A. Sheaffer Pen Co. Stationery and book stores were second in volume of units sold, with variety stores third.

Early dwellers in the Holy Land understood irrigation, say archeologists, and in 2000 B.C. farm villages thrived in the now-barren Negev.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Most Famous Victim Of Marfan's Syndrome Not Handicapped: Lincoln

VAN DELLEN

A nurse has written us concerning a news item she read about "a disease researchers believe Abraham Lincoln had; I think it is called Marfan's syndrome. I would like more information on this condition."

Interest was renewed in this hereditary disorder, first described in 1896, when it was found in a male descendant of Lincoln's great-great-grandfather (going back nine generations). The suggestion was made that the unusual physical appearance of our 16th president was caused by this syndrome, which is due to a mismatching of the chromosomes.

IT INVOLVES the connective tissue of bones, ligaments, eyes, heart, and blood vessels. Excessive growth of the long bones leads to elongated arms, legs, fingers, and toes. The arm span of a normal individual is equal to his height but in Marfan's it is three inches longer.

Persons with this syndrome have little fat under the skin and the chest is caved in. The tendons and ligaments become weak and lax, leading to slouching, loose - jointedness, flat feet, hernias, cardiovascular defects, or malpositioned ears. Various eye abnormalities include dislocation of the lens, cross-eye, retinal detachment, and refractive errors.

LINCOLN HAD many of these characteristics. His extremities were out of proportion to his overall height. In sitting down, he was no taller than the ordinary man from the chair seat to the top of his head. His fingers as well as his legs were long and he had unusually large feet.

His face was long and thin and he stooped slightly when standing. There have been reports of an intermittent squint of the left eye and farsightedness. He did not have a hernia and his heart and blood vessels probably were normal for his age at the time of his assassination.

If Lincoln had Marfan's, he was not handicapped by it. Up to now, he is the most famous of its victims.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

ROUGH SPOTS

L.R.N. writes: What is the best treatment for a number of keratoses that have appeared on my back?

REPLY

They are easily removed via an electric current or surgery. But this may not be necessary unless the growths change in size or color or become a cosmetic eyesore.

INTESTIONAL DISORDERS

J. L. writes: Is acute gastroenteritis the same as spasms of the intestine?

REPLY

No, but spasm may accompany infection of the intestine. Acute gastroenteritis stems from food poisoning or viral infection and diarrhea is the most frequent manifestation.

EYE FATIGUE

G. I. writes: Is it natural for some persons to have tired-looking eyes?

REPLY

Yes — when tired. The eyes of the world-weary and cynics who have seen everything may look this way routinely.

NICOTINE STAINS

R. R. writes: I gave up smoking two weeks ago. Will the yellow stain between the index and next fingers disappear in time?

REPLY

Yes. Most ex-smokers who write us have greater problems.

MILK AND ULCER

W. R. writes: Is skim milk as good as whole milk for an ulcer patient?

REPLY

No, but it is a good substitute if the cream in whole milk is creating a problem.

Copenhagen Hotels Have Gone Modern

By BERT L. MARSH

COPENHAGEN (UPI) — You return to your hotel, travel-stained and weary, and end up late at night washing your drip-dry shirts and looking for somewhere to hang them. The rail for the shower curtain isn't long enough, or doesn't exist, so you finally hang the things on doorknobs or over the side of the bath.

Not so in at least one hotel in Denmark. They've discovered clotheslines.

Taking a bath, you look suspiciously at an assortment of faucets and reach over to turn one on. You might have known — it was for the shower and you get doused.

So the Danes put pictures over the faucets telling users what to expect. And in least one hotel they have individual water temperature controls in the bathrooms, with the temperature listed in the Fahrenheit you're accustomed to as well as the European Centigrade scale.

When you get into bed, in most hotels, you find the lamp over your head gets in your way. Danish ingenuity has found an answer — the lamp slides along the wall on a runner that is hidden by the wall's tackwood paneling.

Some of the advantages of considerable thought being put into Danish hotel construction were explained by Alberto Kappenberger, who for the record isn't Danish but Swiss. He is manager of the Royal Hotel in downtown Copenhagen, the tallest (22 stories) building and biggest hotel in Scandinavia.

Kappenberger at one time boasted citizens of 18 countries including the United States and Canada on his staff, and still includes Danish born doorman Otto Gregersen who cama here in 1960 from the Waldorf-Astoria in New York.

Kappenberger learned the hotel business at a special school in Switzerland. Hence, the drip-dry clotheslines in some bathrooms (others have clothes rails, and all have hangers with clothespins attached for women's stockings), the pictures over the faucets and the moving bedlamps.

But that's far from all. The wardrobes, for instance, have high hangers for coats and long formal dresses, and lower ones for regular suits. And besides the normal telephones, including bathroom extensions, there are buzzers for chambermaids.

There's only one sauna (a sort of steam bath without steam) in Denmark. It's at Kappenberger's hotel.

And the internal communications system is so up-to-date, that the charge for your room service is relayed to the cashier — and entered on your bill — before you get the setup of ginger ale, glasses and ice.

Litterbug Bites Rich, Poor Alike

NEW YORK (UPI) — Everybody is a potential litterbug. Litter is just as likely to be flung from a chauffeur-driven Cadillac as from a rattletrap jalopy. These conclusions come from a psychological "depth study" of the litter problem that finds "contrary to prevalent belief, no social, economic or ethnic group in America has a monopoly on littering. The litterer is the average citizen."

A summary report (prepared by the Institute for Motivational Research, Inc. sponsored by the Glass Container Manufacturers Institute, Inc., says "the creation of litter by individuals is a thoughtless or careless rather than a malicious act or one arising from any psychological malfunctioning of the litterer."

Swimming Pool Season Starting For Terra Linda

The swimming pool of the Terra Linda Recreation and Parks District will open for the summer season at 11 a.m. Sunday. Memberships in the pool are on sale at the district office, 670 Del Ganado Road.

Until the end of the school year, the pool schedule will include morning swims Monday and Thursday 10 a.m. to noon, weekday openings 3 to 7 p.m., and weekends 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Saturdays and 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. on Sundays.

A two-week class of swimming instruction will be offered to adults starting Monday with afternoon classes held daily. Another two-week session will be held starting in two weeks.

JFK Memorial Is Dedicated

A memorial to the late John F. Kennedy was dedicated this week by students at Neil Cummins School in Corte Madera.

The memorial consists of a white gravel walkway leading to a stand which has a plaque attached to it. The plaque reads: "In Memory of John F. Kennedy, Nov. 22, 1963. Neil Cummins Student Body."

Money to finance the memorial was contributed by the student body. Fall semester student body officers, who initiated the project, dedicated the memorial Monday. The current events class presented a scrapbook on the late president to the memorial committee.

Clubs To Sponsor Showing Of Films

The College of Marin Art Club and Interclub Council will sponsor a free showing of experimental American films at 1 p.m. and 4 p.m. on May 26 and June 2 in room 61 of the art building.

The avant garde films will include "Cosmic Ray" and "Meshes in the Afternoon" on May 26 and "Sirius Remembered" and "Guernica" on June 2.

Postoffice To Open On Monday

Corte Madera's first postoffice station will open Monday at the Paradise Pharmacy, 5633 Paradise Drive.

Postmaster Edward J. Victor said the contract station was being opened "because we have had a number of requests for the service on the east side of town."

The station will be open from 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 p.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays and from 10 a.m. to noon on Saturdays.

All ordinary window services will be available at the station, including purchase of stamps, money orders, registered mail and parcel post.

The Glaze family will support Nguyen Van Ke, a 7-year-old boy with five brothers and sisters who lives in a village near Saigon, South Vietnam.

Homestead Seeking Reappraisal Session

Homestead Valley Improvement Club directors Tuesday directed their president, H. Donald Harris, to arrange for a meeting with the county assessor or assistant to discuss lack of equalization which may result from reappraisal of unincorporated areas surrounding Mill Valley this year.

"Mill Valley," said Harris, "Is not being reappraised itself until 1965 or 1966 and the board of directors fears that the unincorporated area will be paying a significantly higher tax than it had paid perviously."

Topsy Turvy Romance In New York

By LES DARD

Again, variety spices the lives of Marin County moviegoers this weekend, as witness:

SEQUOIA THEATER

Fun will be the fare come Sunday in Mill Valley, with a balmy little comedy called "Sunday in New York."

Jane Fonda, a proper young lady from Albany, visits her airline pilot brother, Cliff Robertson, in Manhattan to try to get over a broken romance with Robert Culp.

Delectable shots of The Big Town offer pleasant background for this naughty-but-nice sort of fluff. Norman Krasna, who wrote the play, also did the screenplay.

Co-featured is Bob Hope's newest, "A Global Affair," in which Old Ski Snoot plays a UN agent who becomes custodian of a baby the whole world wants.

RAFAEL THEATER

"Seven Days in May," a political drama to set the spine to tingling, comes in Sunday. It is a gripping story about a fictional military coup in Washington set in the year 1974.

Taken from the powerful novel by Fletcher Knebel and Charles W. Bailey, it is beautifully directed, staged and performed.

Frederic March plays an idealistic President, Burt Lancaster the five-star general who considers him weak and wants him out.

Col. Kirk Douglas, as Lancaster's aide, spots the plot and warns the President in time to prevent the overthrow.

Stirring moments come in the suspenseful seven days before the planned seizure of the government.

Hollywood can take a bow for this one.

Co-featured is "Paris When It Sizzles," a spoof on movie-making starring William Holden as a script-writer, Audrey Hepburn as his typist. Noel Coward and Tony Curtis put in brief appearances.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

Niven plays a gentleman jewel thief who is set on heisting a fabulous gem owned by an equally fabulous Moslem princess—Miss Cardinale.

Police of several countries are out to head off the robbery, and the one whose head is most off is, of course, Mr. Sellers. He steals the show as a would-be-worldly detective who just can't do anything right.

Niven is smooth, Wagner believable as the nephew determined to follw in his stealthy footsteps.

Good escapism.

NOVATO THEATER

A boy with a dream of freedom and a determination to achieve it is movingly depicted in "America, America," which comes in Sunday.

The film tells the story of writer - director - producer Elia Kazan's uncle, who made his way to this country from Greece at the end of the last century.

The youth's way was not easy. Given the family money and sent to Constantinople, he is beaten, robbed and degraded. Working for more money, he is robbed again.

The lead role is played by an authentic Greek immigrant, Stathis Giallelis, who pleaded with Kazan to give him the role. He portrays it as he might have lived it.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

Two outstanding British pictures are showing through Sunday:

"This Sporting Life" is the tragedy of a lonely athlete, a big lummox whose rugby prowess brings him money, but never satisfaction.

The mounting frustrations followed by eventual explosion and ultimate ruin are superlatively drawn by Richard Harris as the hulking athlete and Rachel Roberts as his widowed, neurotic landlady.

The second feature, "Saturday Night and Sunday Morning," stars Albert Finney in a role that is largely humorous but sometimes angry.

Finney plays a working bloke. He slaves over a lathe all week, waiting for his paycheck. Come Saturday, the world is his.

FAIRFAX THEATER

Albert Finney plays a perfect Tom, adopted son of Squire Allworthy, in this unrestrained romp through the bawdy, spirited 18th Century England. Tom is hot-blooded, irreverent and mischievous—but forgiven because he is also generous, gay and brave.

Discredited by an enemy, he is banished by his father. In London, he has a close brush with the gallows, but even this doesn't slow down the fun for long.

The picture's earthy characters, open bawdiness and raciness of speech are made the more effective by brilliant direction and camera work.

It earned the Best Picture Oscar, plus three others—all well deserved.

LARK THEATER

Despite its inept title, "To Bed or Not to Bed" is a delicious Italian satire.

It stars Albert Sordi as a Roman businessman making his first trip to Scandinavia. He has heard wonderful things about Swedish women.

Lots of fun here, and lovely girls.

101 DRIVE-IN

Tonight and tomorrow is "Dead Ringer," a murder melodrama starring Bette Davis playing twins in a sometimes chilling story.

Twin sisters estranged for 18 years meet again. One is very rich, newly widowed by the man both loved as girls; the other is poor, beset by financial problems, her life tawdry and lonely.

The spinster sister neatly arranged to murder her wealthy twin and assumes the role of the rich widow.

The tensions of stepping into another life provide a gripping sequence of events Miss Davis handles adroitly.

MOTOR MOVIES

Two Jerry Lewis re-runs, now showing.

In "Don't Give Up the Ship," Jerry plays an ex-naval officer who is dragged away from his wedding and accused of misplacing a destroyer during the war. Jerry gets told either to find it, come up with five million dollars or go to jail.

In "Rock-a-Bye Baby" Jerry plays an old flame of Marilyn Maxwell. He spends the rest of the film playing Papa to a set of triplets—most amusingly.

MOVIE MAKING SPOOF — William Holden and Audrey Hepburn are shown in a scene from "Paris When It Sizzles," opening Sunday at Rafael Theater. Co-feature is dramatic "Seven Days In May."
